Tom Marshall Is Still Looking for That 5-Cent Cigar

Washington, Oct. 20 (By International News Service).—Thomas Riley Marshall, former Vice-President of the United States, now back in governmental harness as a member of the Coal Fact Finding Commission, after a vacation since March 4, 1921, is still looking for that "good 5-cent" cigar.

"I never have found it," sighed the sage of the Wabash today. "I've traveled lots of miles and probably had a million cigars sent me since I remarked that what this country needed was a good 5-cent cigar, but it is still elusive."

The former Vice-President pulled on a 15-cent cigar as he talked.

BIG FUR THEFT IN LITTLE BUILDING

Two South Boston "porch-and-banners" are sought by the police in connection with the robbery of several thousand dollars' worth of fure from Lubell the Furrier, Little Building, which was revealed today.

The stolen furs have been recovered. In the search for the loot and the pugilists believed to have engineered the theft, six persons were questioned. They were three waitresses employed at Wellesley College and three young men of Natick. They were taken into custody following a raid by Special Officers Walkins, Shannon and Fallon.

'WARPATH' FOR LLOYD GEORGE

London, Oct. 20 (By International News Service).—"The burden is off my shoulders but the sword is in my hands and my enemies will feel its weight," declared Former Premier David Lloyd George this evening before departing for Leeds to deeliver an important political speech, tomorrow.

Mr. Lloyd George vigorously shook his fist at irregimary political enemies as he talked.

The ex-premier earlier in the day was given a tremendous ovation when he went to the Guild Hall to take part in the ceremonies officially "welcoming home" the Prince of Wales from his recent Indian trip. In toasting the Prince, Lloyd George said:

"I am only a transient minister

REIGN OF TERROR IN VLADIVOSTOK AS JAPS LEAVE

By the Associated Press.

Vladivostok, Oct. 20.—American and British marines were landed here today to guard the consulates of the two nations.

The Russian Red army is nearing the city, the White army being unable to oppose it. Japanese soldiers have been gradually withdrawing from the city. It is announced that all will have left by October 26.

Tokio, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Terror reigns in Vladivostok as the completion of Japanese evacuation approaches, according to dispatches received here today.

Last night the city was plunged in darkness by the failure of the lighting plant. White guards roamed the city in the darkness, pillaging business houses and residences and holding up pedestrians.

On the outskirts of the town Japanese troops and Red forces of the advancing Far Eastern republic army are reported to have clashed.

The original plan of the Japanese was to turn over the administration of Vladivostok to the municipal government and to hold the Reds outside the neutral zone until evacuation was completed.

Then the municipal authorities refused to take possession of the war munitions left behind by the Japanese, and the latter sought to open negotiations with the Reds to give

NOTES REVEAL MRS. HALL AND 'SOUL MATE' CLASHED

New York, Oct. 20.—An amazing love epistle found in the effects of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills suddenly has developed a compelling angle in the Hall-Mills double slaying mystery.

It is as though a voice from the grave had spoken in an effort to untangle the baffling murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his "wonder heart," Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

The American is able to reveal, through exclusive publication today, one of the minister's soul-baring letters to Mrs. Mills, and to provide evidence of a definite break between Mrs. Hall, the wife, and Mrs. Mills, the soul-mate.

In a missive written on a Sunday afternoon last August while the Rector was vacationing with his wife at Islesford, Me., he wrote to his beloved choir singer:

About Mrs. Hall—She hasn't said a word about you and I don't think has changed toward you—but her remarks at Point Pleasant were foolish and entirely uncalled for. I don't blame you for

OWSLEY HEAD OF AMERICAN LEGION

New Orleans, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Alvin M. Owsley of Texas, was elected National Commander of the American Legion for the next year, by the annual convention of the veterans here today, succeeding Hanford MacNider of Iowa.

The balloting for commander came at the close of the legion's fourth annual convention. The vote was overwhelming, being announced as follows: Owsley, 574; Deegan, 351; Thompson, 205; McCormick, 12.

Delegate Rice W. Means of Colorado presented the name of John A. McCormick, present national vice-commander.

Connecticut yielded to Massachusetts, whose past commander, Leo Hollow, nominated a New York man—William T. Deegan, commander of the New York department.

All states passed until Louisiana was called. Department Commander Ewing named T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans, former department commander and chairman of the convention arrangements committee.

Mr. Walmsley was given unanimous consent to speak. "I have not," Mr Walmsley said, "and will

EX-GOV. BEECKMAN OF R. I. ACCUSED

Providence, Oct. 20.—The Providence News published a broadside article today, accusing former Governor R. Livingston Beeckman of trying to go to the United States Senate by bribing Democrats to betray their party. Beeckman is the Republican senatorial nominee. The News charges that he paid Herve J. Lapace $1,500 to work in Beeckman's interest against the Democrats. Lapace was defeated for the Democratic nomination in the Third Congressional District by one vote. The News alleges the money was paid over by J. Henry Reuter, one of Beeckman's workers. Pictures of three $500 bills are published as the bills in question.

TIBER OVERFLOWS IN FIERCE STORM IN ROME

Rome, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Rome and the surrounding region suffered today from the effects of an unusually severe storm which lasted thirty hours and during which lightning caused several fires and the heavy rainfall flooded basements. The Tiber overflowed and drove hundreds of families out of their homes.

LUDLOW VIOLINIST'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Springfield, Oct. 20.—The body of Robert McFadyen, forty-three years old, a violinist and orchestra leader of Elm street, Ludlow, who had been missing ten days, was found in the Chicopee River, near Indian Leap Bridge. McFadyen had been accustomed to walk in that vicinity and may have slipped over the steep bank.

the republican troops control and thus avoid an interim of disorder.

The Chita commanders refused to negotiate and the clash between the Japanese and Reds is reported to have followed.

Lawlessness in City as Japanese Leave

Washington, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Consul Winslow at Vladivostok has advised the State Department of the landing at that place of a small detachment of American marines for the protection of the American consulate because of the state of lawlessness which has prevailed since the Japanese evacuation.

Several bandits recently held up the French consul at Vladivostok, according to information here, and compelled him to surrender the key of the consulate and combination to the safe containing papers and records of the French authorities.

Sending of Troops to Russia Revives Old Question

Washington, Oct. 20.—The landing of United States marines in Russian territory, ostensibly to preserve order in Vladivostock, raised the question as to America's right to put troops in foreign countries.

The sending of troops to northern Russia during the war aroused strong opposition in this country, the Wilson administration being severely condemned.

But the Harding administration is following the policy of Wilson, as is indicated by the landing of marines in China a few days ago.

MILLITELLO IS HELD IN BLACK HAND MURDER

Steffano Millitello, thirty-two, was held today for the Grand Jury, on the charge of murdering Joseph Simboli, Black Hand leader, in Orient Heights, September 20.

Judge J. H. Brown of the East Boston District Court returned a verdict of "probable cause." Antonio Bianco, thirty-three, the second man held in the case was found not guilty and discharged.

Millitello was held after evidence was introduced to show that shoe marks found near Simboli's body tallied with certain marks on the accused man's shoes. In addition, wheel marks of an auto that were close to the body, were the same as could have been made by an auto by which Millitello was known to have ridden on the night of the murder.

Sergeant Patrick J. McNealy made both points against the defendant, introducing evidence that Millitello took an auto from the DiVito garage, East Boston at 7 o'clock September 20, and returned with the machine at 8 o'clock on September 20. Simboli's body was found about 12:30 a. m.

PARENTS ARE CONVICTED IN WINCHESTER

were in great majority.

The Rev. William Smith, Esau Green and William Robinson, negro parents, were each found guilty of having failed to send their children to school.

Judge Maguire postponed sentences until the cases of the remaining three colored defendants, Charles Smith, George Jackson and Charles O. Kirby, were heard.

The defendants, who have twelve children in all, live in the Harvard and Irving street sections of Winchester, which was formerly in the Washington School district.

HOW ROW STARTED.

By re-districting the thirty-five children in this district were transferred to the Chapin School at the opening of the September term. They included twenty-two colored, one Irish and twelve Italian boys and girls. Colored parents raised the cry of discrimination and their children did not attend school.

Attendance Officer Nat. M. Nichols, opening witness for the complaining School Board, testified that he spoke to the colored parents, but was told they would not send their children to the Chapin School.

DEFENDED BY LEWIS.

William H. Lewis, ex-Assistant United States District Attorney, and counsel for the first three defendants, said that the School Board designed to segregate the colored children into the Chapin School.

Judge Maguire: "The School Committee is not on trial here."

Atty. Lewis insisted that the negroes are classed as aliens.

School Supt. John R. Fausey admitted that Italian children were in majority at the Chapin. But he said the redistricting was merely due to overcrowding.

William Robinson said he kept his twelve-year-old boy out of school on account of the transfer. The other two defendants said the same.

In summing up, Atty. Lewis said: "This is a public school. If certain parents do not wish to send their children to a school with the Irish, the Dago or the Negro, let them send their children to a private, school and not try to make a private school out of a public one. I do not believe the school committee is working in good faith."

Attorney Dunbar F. Carpenter, member of and counsel for the school board, declared that these colored families had segregated themselves by living in the Harvard and Irving street sections; that the school board acted in good faith and transferred all children on those streets, black or white. He denied any discrimination.

WAR DECLARED BY LLOYD GEORGE

now, but I still represent the people who wish to express their admiration for you."

The Prince shook the former Premier warmly by the hand.

TO RUSH IRISH BILL.

Andrew Bonar Law today said the Irish Home Rule bill, making effective the Anglo-Irish treaty, would be put through the new Parliament before December 6, the time limit set for it. He will ask dissolution of the present Parliament immediately for a general election.

Ex-Premier Lloyd George has given assurances of his aid to ratify the Irish treaty.

He has rearranged his plans for a vacation. He is not going to take a rest as previously announced, but intends to begin fighting at once for a "comeback," and it will be the greatest battle of his remarkable career in politics.

It is believed he may announce tomorrow at Leeds his plans for formation of a third or "centre" party.

CONFIDENT OF RECALL.

It is declared he is confident he will be recalled to the premiership.

Lloyd George is confident that he will be recalled to the Premiership

Andrew Bonar Law, successor to Lloyd George, will attempt to form a new Cabinet over the week-end. It is possible that Mr. Law will hold the portfolio of Foreign Secretary as well as Premier. This would indicate that the Tories themselves do not anticipate a long life for the new Unionist government.

Lord Derby, former War Secretary, and later Ambassador to France, is spoken of as Colonial Secretary in succession to Winston Churchill. Lord Salisbury as Chancellor, and Lord Curzon as minister without portfolio, but as general adviser.

Supporters of Lloyd George believe that the former Premier is more popular with the masses at present than at any other time in his long and brilliant public career. Crowds gather to cheer him whenever he goes into the streets.

PRINCE DISAPPOINTED.

An interesting sidelight on the resignation of Lloyd George and his coalition government is the disappointment shown by the Prince of Wales. The Prince in recent years has looked to the Premier for paternal advice in personal as well as public affairs. It is even reported that the Prince revealed little affairs of the heart to Lloyd George when he would speak of them to no one else.

The Welsh statesman and the youthful heir to the throne were chums rather than "fellow statesmen."

Washington Awaits British Debt Plan

Washington, Oct. 20.—Developments in the British political situation continued to hold close attention in both governmental and diplomatic circles here today.

Although it appeared doubtful to officials today when the situation would be sufficiently clarified to permit the sending of a British commission to this country to discuss refunding that country's war debt to the United States, for which the commission named by the Lloyd George government was to have sailed a week ago, there was little doubt that the negotiations would be carried out practically on the basis already mapped out.

London Anti-Coalition Press Welcomes Change

London, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—The majority of London's morning newspapers being anti-coalition, the fall of the Lloyd-George ministry is mostly welcomed by them today.

The Times declares the country wants "to return to the normal ways of life and to feel its welfare is in the hands of men of sound sense, less anxious to shine as individuals than to merit confidence as faithful wardens of the public good."

"The coalition is dead and gone unwept and unsung," says the Daily News.

The Westminster Gazette comments: "The coalition has been a thorough imposture."

The Daily Express calls for a strong Conservative government to terminate the "period of costly adventure abroad," foster economy and encourage trade.

The Daily Mail says Great Britain has had no more unpopular administration than the coalition since the days of the Stuarts.

The Daily Herald calls upon labor to prepare for the election. It repudiates the charge that labor is associated with the extreme type of revolutionary Socialism, and says it is merely revolutionary in the sense of "desiring to tackle the cause of social evil and build society on a sounder foundation."

The Daily Telegraph, supporter of the Coalition, says the political scene has been changed almost beyond belief.

The Daily Chronicle, warm supporter of Lloyd George, thinks that "a Coalition government of one type or another is likely to be the country's lot for much of its foreseeable future."

Fight Is Like Tonic to Lloyd George Says His Wife

London, Oct. 20.—"You can take it from me that whatever happens my husband is quite ready for it," declared Mrs. Lloyd George to a speech in London.

"He loves a fight and his spirit goes up and his health improves when there is a fight going on.

"I am always pleased when there is a fight because he gives me far less trouble. A fight is like a tonic to him."

on a summer cottage at Cochituate, part of Natick.

A bystander last night saw a taxicab parked in front of the Little Building. When he saw men loading furs into the machine, he became suspicious. He took notice of the number plates on the taxi and reported the incident to the La Grange street station. The police had no difficulty in tracing the car.

They sped to Cochituate in a hired automobile. There they learned that a short time before a taxicab had stopped at a cottage in Sunset road. There they proceeded, and took the house by storm. The three men and three women were having a hilarious party when the police burst in. All had been drinking.

Fallon stood guard. The others searched the house. In an upper bedroom they located a quantity of valuable furpieces and coats.

Concerning the furs found in the cottage, the men said they had been brought there a short time before by two young men who, as far as they knew, had escaped while the police were approaching the house.

Lloyd George Is Out
Woodrow Wilson Can't Vote
Edison Saw Ideas Grow
A Woman Surely Killed Her

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922 Star Co.

Lloyd George is out, for the time, and the British Empire will miss a man that has steered the ship through most difficult years. The Tory gentlemen think they no longer need him. With new alliances forming, the new problems rising, they will find themselves mistaken. For him it means needed rest. No one in all history has carried a greater load, or carried it better. For England, he won the war.

Woodrow Wilson is a man without a vote. New Jersey decides that he can no longer vote there, as he does not live there, and he has no vote in Washington.

It is annoying for him, but his importance will call useful attention to the disgraceful fact that all living at the national capital are political pariahs. They live where they can actually see what sort of government they have, and may not vote.

Every little boy knows how great oaks from little acorns grow. Biologists marvel at the change of a tiny cell into a full-sized elephant or whale. But the growth of an idea is infinitely more amazing. Even a word, spoken for freedom, of body or thought, may grow into a new civilization, upsetting ancient empires and laws.

Edison, in the great General Electrical plant, has seen his ideas of long ago grow into a new mechanical and industrial world.

In his youth he struggled to get light from electricity, running through a resisting medium. At Schenectady he held in hands an incandescent bulb of 200,000-candle power. He had worked with little magnets in many ways. Then he saw them powerful enough to lift tons.

But there was something even more important in that electric factory. That was Steinmetz, its head engineer, running for State Engineer on the Socialist ticket this year.

What may that fact grow into? Edison would like to know. So would others if they had Edison's intelligence.

Slowly the case of Hall, the clergyman found murdered beside the dead body of Mrs. Mills, leader of his choir, becomes national in size. They wrote the usual letters, he kept the usual diary. Human beings must always TALK about it; that is why they are found out.

The murdered woman's husband says "a jealous woman did it," and that is evident. She killed or helped to kill both, but cut the throat of the woman she hated after that woman was dead.

BRIDE ACCUSES 'MAGNETIC LOVE' CULT HEAD

Divorce Ends Schleber Row

WIFE GETS $21,500 IN CASH

Her Son Bobbie, Whom the Major Kidnaped, Awarded to Custody of Mother

Mrs. Myrtle Schleber of Winthrop today obtained a divorce from Major Louis Schleber of Greenwich, Ct.

Thus ended a love entanglement that lead to the kidnaping of eight-year-old Robert Schleber, the filing of a $50,000 alienation suit and counter damage suits of both principals against attorneys.

The granting of the decree by Judge Robert Grant in Suffolk Probate Court prevented the barring of the contents of forty letters which were to form the basis of the alienation action and to figure in the divorce case.

MAJOR PAYS $21,500.

These letters unquestionably played an important part in the agreement of the major's counsel to the payment of $21,500 when the decree becomes absolute six months from today. During the meantime the woman will receive $200 monthly.

The mother was awarded the custody of little Bobby, the central figure in the kidnapping of a few months back when the Major seized the child as he came from school and whisked him away in a big touring car.

Several days later Major Schleber was arrested at Greenwich, Ct., at instigation of Attorney Jasper N. Johnson, counsel for the mother, and Lieutenant John Douglass of the Winthrop police.

FILES $50,000 SUITS.

As result the major filed suit for damages against both men in the sum of $50,000. About this time Mrs. Schleber entered a suit for $50,000 for alienation of affections, against Mrs. Eleanor Taylor of Philadelphia, wife of an army captain whom she had divorced.

Previously Mrs. Schleber claims to have engaged Alonzo E. Yont as counsel and so, when he appeared for her husband, she filed a third $50,000 suit, charging breach of confidence.

All these actions were quashed by agreement of counsel and the interested parties. The major agreed to the cash settlement and not to contest the divorce.

8 Killed in Mine Blast

McCurtain, Okla., Oct. 20. (By the Associated Press).—Eight men were killed and four were badly injured in an explosion of gas in the Progressive Coal Company's mine a mile and a half north of McCurtain today.

Two of the four men taken from the mine, Bob Wallace and Frank Everg, were seriously injured.

MOTHER AND BOYS SHE SAVED FROM AUTO

MRS. ARTHUR FIDLER AND SONS

Mrs. Fidler rescued her boys, Wendell, at left, and Allen, when an auto started to roll down hill on Chestnut street, Charlestown.

SAVES CHILDREN AS AUTO GOES ON RAMPAGE

Two children were saved from death and a serious accident averted when Mrs. Arthur Fidler carried her boys, AAen, three years old, and Wendell, five years, from an automobile just as it started to roll downhill without a driver.

As the machine gained momentum Mrs. Fidler, fearing a crash at the bottom of the hill, rushed ahead and warned several automobilists. The machine crashed into an electric light pole.

The accident occurred on Chestnut street, Charlestown. The owner, Fred Lovett of No. 11 Jasper street, Somerville, had left the car to visit his daughter at No. 22 Chestnut street. He stated that the brake was set on the machine and cannot explain how it started.

20 LIVES LOST IN BRITISH SHIPWRECK

Yarmouth, Eng., Oct. 20 (By International News Service).—Twenty lives are believed to have been lost when the British steamship Hopelin was wrecked off the coast today.

U. S. FILES FIRST BIG SUIT OVER WAR CONTRACTS

Washington, Oct. 20.—Return to the government of $454,188 in connection with war contracts was asked in a suit filed at the direction of Attorney-General Daugherty in the Federal Courts at Cleveland, O., today against the Cleveland Brass & Copper Mills, Inc., and their surety, the Fidelity & Deposit Company of Maryland.

The suit was said here to have resulted from failure of the company to meet the first of several notes totalling the amount stipulated in the bill and tendered by the company in settlement of certain claims presented by the government shortly after the armistice in 1918.

Foreclosure of a mortgage lien against the plant of the Cleveland company was asked. The Attorney-General announced that this was one of a series of similar suits which will be filed on behalf of the government, possibly within the next month.

OBREGON DEMANDS ALIEN SAFEGUARD

Mexico City, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Mexicans who attack foreigners or their property are to be regarded as traitors and dealt with accordingly, under a penal code amendment submitted to the Department of Interior by President Obregon for formal presentation to the Chamber of Deputies. The bill, the President explained, is prompted by the fact that "numerous persons of low class have taken advantage of revolutionary periods to molest foreigners, thus causing international complications."

23 FACE DEATH IN STORM

Fisherman Ruth and Margaret In Port After Terrific Battle With Sea Off Georges

Looking as though she had encountered a typhoon, two bat tleships and a few assorted cloudbursts, the fisherman Ruth and Margaret, Captain Valentine O'Neill, crept into port at South Boston today.

Twenty-three men breathed a fervent prayer of thanksgiving when the battered schooner tied up to its fishing pier, for not one of them had ever expected to reach shore alive.

The foremast, mainmast and bowsprit of the schooner were gone. Seven of her ten dories were gone. She made port with the power of her auxiliary engines. The men related a tale of hardship and stubborn battle against what seemed to be almost certain death.

FOREMAST SWEPT AWAY.

The Ruth and Margaret was in South Channel of Georges Banks Wednesday night at eight o'clock when a heavy sea washed her decks and swept away the foremast.

It was pitch dark and bitter cold. Drenched to the skin, the twenty-three men on board had difficulty in keeping on the pitching schooner, let alone attempt to navigate. They were dismayed to find that the waves which took away the foremast also swept away seven of their dories; that left only three dories in which, if the emergency arose, the twenty-three men would have to trust themselves to get back to port, 120 miles away.

They made efforts to clear the wreckage of the foremast with axes.

SAYS BRIBERY IN HUGE RUM PLOT

Chicago, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Special investigators authorized by the Department of Justice to inquire into the recent conduct of the office of the United States district attorney at Chicago, today reported that "there is not the slightest doubt that since the passage of the eighteenth amendment there has been traffic in intoxicating liquors, organized on a large scale and protected by bribery and corruption."

Providence, R. I., Oct. 20.—Members of the crew of the steamer Concord have been summoned to testify before Captain Robert B. Clark, inspector of hulls, and Richard F. The crew of the Mohegan, which rescued the passengers from the burning boat, will also testify.

Mrs. Doucet Seeks Annulmentof Marriage to "Pupil of Svoboda"

William Doucet, pupil of Alois P. Svoboda, teacher of "the sublime principles of science," decided to add a few trimmings to the lessons he assimilated. Out of this determination grew a love nest in the woods at Saugus, with many votaries — all women — who came to feel the magnetic touch of Doucet—a touch that kept him in spending money when otherwise he might have starved.

His principle was the laying on of hands in the interests of what he termed secret evolution. He laid on hands until Thursday, when the law laid on hands.

Today Doucet, the imparter of magnetic touch, pseudo detective medium, alleged extortionist and adventurer, is in jail because he can't lay his hands on $1,000 bail, nor touch any of his disciples for that amount.

His disillusioned bride of three months, a former pupil, is trying to effect an annulment of her marriage. His predicament is the result of his failure to explain certain things to her. Among them are:

Why, after making pretensions of great wealth, it became necessary for her to leave her trousseau

ONE OF REAL ROMANCES OF CHEMISTRY NOW COMPLETE

Famous Carrel-Dakin Solution, Marvelous World War Antiseptic Which Saved Lives of Hundreds of Thousands of Wounded Soldiers, Has Been So Perfected It Can Now Be Used to Guard the Home from Infection and Disease.

CHEMIST TELLS OF SIX YEARS OF TOIL AND THE FINAL ASTONISHING TRIUMPH

Physicians, Chemists, Bacteriologists, Editors and Business Men Agree That New Formula Will Accomplish More Good for Humanity and Save More Lives in Peace Days to Come Than Original Discovery Did in War.

In 1915 the allied surgeons were in despair. They appealed to the world for a new antiseptic of some sort. They demanded two things of this antiseptic: first, it must be strong enough to kill germs; second, it had to be harmless to the human body even when used at great strength.

In answer to this appeal two scientists of the Rockefeller Institute, New York City, went to the war zone and worked for many months. The result of their experiments was the now-famous Carrel-Dakin solution. Official records show that before the use of this antiseptic in the Allied hospitals 70 per cent. of the wounded died of infection, not from the wound itself, but from infection. After the antiseptic was discovered the loss of life among the wounded from this cause was negligible. Some hospitals showed not a single death from wound infection.

But the Carrel-Dakin solution, although it was the most marvelous antiseptic the world had ever seen, would not "keep." It had to be made daily for the hospitals by experts and the general public was denied its protection.

Experimented Six Years

For six years chemists have been experimenting with the antiseptic in the hope of overcoming this defect. They have at last succeeded. Zonite, as the new product is called, is the Carrel-Dakin solution not only stabilized but concentrated and perfected—thus making it available for use in our daily lives. Although absolutely harmless and non-poisonous, it is shown by standard laboratory tests to have more than twice the germicidal strength of pure carbolic acid.

An interview has been obtained with the chemist who is chiefly responsible for giving this miraculous antiseptic to the general public. The interview took place in a western city where the laboratory of the chemist is located. Part of the interview is as follows:

"To begin with," said the interviewer, "let me congratulate you upon giving this antiseptic to the world."

"Don't congratulate me," the chemist said quickly. "I claim little credit for Zonite. The Rockefeller Institute people first showed the antiseptic possibilities of NaOCl to the surgical world. The Carrel-Dakin solution is the real discovery—not Zonite."

"But you have a concentration of this solution that will keep and they haven't that, have they?"

"Yes," admitted the chemist, "that is true."

"Well, then," said the interviewer, "tell me about it. What got you started on your experiments and how long have you been at them?"

Real Antiseptic Long Needed

"Several years before war was declared," said the chemist, "I recognized the possibilities of NaOCl and had been experimenting with it. You know, as did every surgeon and chemist in the world, that there was no real antiseptic that could be applied in strong solution to living tissue. It was not surprised, therefore, to hear of the frightful wound infections in the Allied hospitals. What can a surgeon do with carbolic acid, iodine, bichloride and stuff like that? If he uses them at sufficient strength to destroy bacteria, they will destroy body tissue. If he dilutes them to a point where they are non-irritating they won't destroy bacteria, and there you are.

"When the Carrel-Dakin solution was discovered the only thing we knew about it over here at first was that it was a powerful antiseptic that it was harmless to tissue and that it had checked wound infection in the war hospitals. Finally the formula was published in various journals and I learned just medical journals and that it was identical what it was and that it was unstable. It could not be placed in the hands of the general public because it had to be prepared by laboratory methods the day it was used.

"But my faith in NaOCl was rewarded and I got to thinking. Here was the only real germicidal antiseptic in the world that could be applied freely to the human body without fear of tremendous benefit in every home if a way could be found to stabilize it. My assistants and I talked it over several days and decided to continue our experimenting along the lines Carrel-Dakin left off. Our work for the first two years was discouraging and we tried many different methods in our combinations, yielding the same active principles, but got no results. Finally, through high voltage electric currents of great amperage, plus pressures and balanced temperatures, we got a light. It took us four years more to reach our final result—six years in all. However, Zonite is all we hoped for—and more. Not only will it keep its strength indefinitely, but it is concentrated. It has about twice the germicidal strength of the Carrel-Dakin solution with even greater healing power.

"If you want a Carrel-Dakin solution, you simply add an equal quantity of water to Zonite. If you want a stronger solution, you can use Zonite pure. It is non-poisonous and is proved by the standard germicidal efficient test to be more than twice as powerful a germicide as pure carbolic acid.

"But in Zonite we have something far more important than the mere concentration and stability of the Carrel-Dakin solution.

"In Zonite we have been able to combine the active chemicals of the Carrel-Dakin discovery into a well balanced hypertonic physiological solution that permits the healing processes of nature to keep step with the chemical destruction of the germs. This balance has long been the quest of science. Heretofore the chemicals which killed germs, also killed human cells and tissues, so that two separate and distinct medico-surgical treatments were required. Zonite, however, does both at the same time—kills germs and heals the wounds. It dissolves dead tissues and stimulates living tissues. Its action is most interesting. Its chemicals have a peculiar affinity for the proteins which make up the bodies of the germ organism; they attack and kill the germ itself; and then the solution dissolves the dead germs, and after all this is done Zonite remains a healing fluid which restores flesh and membrane to a healthy condition with the least likelihood of a scar. Its the strongest feature of Zonite."

"Will you tell me a little more about what it will do?" suggested the interviewer.

Chemist Tells of Uses

"Do?" said the chemist, "it will kill bacteria, promptly even when heavily diluted with water."

"Yes, I know that, but why is it different from other antiseptics?"

"It's different from other antiseptics in this way," explained the chemist. "Although it is harmless to the skin, tissue or mucous membrane it can be poured into a cut or wound—imagine pouring pure carbolic acid into a wound or taking it into the mouth—and it can be diluted sufficiently to make it palatable and gargled in the throat or sprayed into the nose."

"There are other antiseptics which are used as gargles and mouth washes."

"Name one," demanded the chemist. The interviewer named several.

The chemist laughed. "Don't tell a physician those are real antiseptics," he said. "The public believes them to be effective germicides, but the public knows very little about disinfectants. Zonite is not in the class with the so-called mild antiseptics. It is a surgical disinfectant and germicide—far stronger than bichloride of mercury, yet it is non-poisonous and harmless to tissue. Think what that means. If a child is going to school, where it will be exposed to contagious diseases, its nose and throat can be sprayed daily with a real antiseptic. If you rinse your mouth and gargle your throat with Zonite you are using something with real germicidal power—not just a pleasant-tasting mouth wash."

Will Prevent Many Diseases

"What is the biggest field for Zonite when placed in the hands of the public?" asked the interviewer.

"That's hard to say," answered the chemist. "For minor ailments—sore throats and colds, for instance—it will obviously be used to a tremendous extent. It is particularly valuable to cuts and wounds. In every break in the skin, however slight, there is the possibility of infection. Just today I read in the paper of a woman who cut her finger while putting up preserves. Blood poisoning set in and she died a few days later. Zonite would have saved that woman's life. It will not only disinfect all such wounds, but will cause them to heal painlessly and rapidly.

"Another most important use for Zonite is by expectant mothers and women in the past women have been forced to use poisonous drug compounds, which should be avoided for two reasons. Many of them dry up the mucous membrane and constitute a serious menace to the unborn child. Second, their highly poisonous nature makes them a constant menace in the home. I don't know what the statistics are, but I'll venture to say that many lives are lost each year by people taking bichloride tablets, for instance, by mistake. On account of its great germicidal powers, non-poisonous character, and extraordinary healing properties Zonite has a much wider range of uses than any other form of antiseptic known to materia medica."

Notice to Physicians:

Zonite, with an equal amount of water, makes a Carrel-Dakin solution. No testing required. Zonite has distinct advantages over the Carrel-Dakin fluid. It is stable, concentrated and ready for immediate use.

Makes Phenomenal Record

Lewis R. Freeman, contributing to World's Work, painted a graphic picture of the discovery of the Carrel-Dakin solution and the wonders it had worked in the great hospital at Compiegne.

"Thanks to the generosity of the Rockefeller Institute, which gave him practically every dissolvent on the score of expense, Dr. Carrel was able to undertake his work undeterred and for it enabled him to summon to his aid the greatest medical talent the world afforded," writes the author.

"The problem of the solution was put up to the great physiological chemist, Henry D. Dakin, now of New York, Scotch-born and bred, but Mr. Dakin experimented with more than two hundred solutions before the one now in use . . . was decided upon."

"Madame Carrel—trained nurse and active assistant of her husband—accompanied him on our round of the hospitals," remarks Mr. Freeman in describing his visit to Compiegne.

"We take pride in the fact," she said, "that no man has yet died from the wounds in our hospital. Indeed, the only one we have lost at all died from pneumonia. And see how comfortable they are! How confident of recovery! And its the part of it, too," she added, "is that we are turning out almost no cripples."

Himself a veteran surgeon of the Civil War, Dr. W. W. Keen added his testimony to the value and importance of the Carrel-Dakin Solution in a communication to the North American Review.

"In this article," remarks the Review of Reviews, "Dr. Keen makes it clear that the surgeons of today are not satisfied with the mere prevention of infection, but are seeking its actual cure."

"Immediately after the war broke out, many new methods, both aseptic and antiseptic, were tested, but nearly all were quickly abandoned. The only efficient antiseptic is that which has been used with great success by Drs. Dakin and Carrel, who were associated first in New York and later collaborated at the hospital in Compiegne. Both surgeons are members of the Rockefeller Institute."

International Journal of Surgery:

"In this war infection has played about the most important role in surgery. There has not been a great advance in the treatment of infected wounds in the last fifty years, since the beginning of the war about 75 per cent. of the amputations were performed because of infection and not because of the purely traumatic condition of the limb—about the same percentage as was performed in other great wars. Fortunately, Dr. Carrel and Dr. Dakin, with their associates, were successful in arriving at a definite line of treatment for such infected wounds."

FACTS ABOUT ZONITE

1. Standard laboratory tests show that 1 part Zonite added to 190 parts water will promptly destroy typhoid and many other virulent disease germs. Carbolic acid diluted 1 to 90 will not accomplish the same results.

2. When used on a cut or wound Zonite promptly destroys the germs which cause blood poisoning, gangrene and other similar forms of infection.

3. Used in proper dilution as a mouth wash Zonite destroys the germs which cause sore throat, and its daily use will give almost sure immunity against this disease. This statement is endorsed by leading bacteriologists of the country.

4. Pyorrhea in its early stages has been checked in a few days by the use of Zonite. If the disease is so far advanced that the germs have worked down toward the roots of the teeth beyond the reach of the antiseptic, dental treatment is absolutely necessary, after which Zonite will aid in preventing a return of the disease.

5. Zonite can be sprayed into the nose and throat at sufficient strength to destroy the germs which cause contagious respiratory diseases and will be of incalculable value during epidemics.

6. Zonite is forty times as powerful as peroxide of hydrogen; it is from 40 to 100 times as powerful as many of the mild, pleasant tasting or foaming antiseptics heretofore in general use.

7. Ten drops of Zonite added to a glass of water will destroy typhoid and other disease germs without rendering the water unfit for drinking.

8. Zonite is non-poisonous and will rid the home of deadly poisons which have cost the world hundreds of thousands of innocent lives.

9. Although more than twice as powerful as pure carbolic acid, Zonite is soothing and healing and will not injure the most delicate tissue or membrane. In proper dilution it actually promotes tissue growth and is probably the most efficient healing agent known to materia medica.

10. Zonite is a powerful bleaching agent and will remove ink and other stains from any white material in a few moments' time. It should not be used on silk or woolen fabrics nor allowed to come in contact with colored or dyed fabrics.

11. Zonite added to an equal amount of water makes a Carrel-Dakin solution ready for immediate use. No testing required.

12. Zonite is a concentrated, stabilized and perfected form of the Carrel-Dakin solution, the celebrated antiseptic discovered by two eminent scientists of the Rockefeller Institute which accomplished such phenomenal results in the hospitals of the Allied armies and saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of desperately wounded men.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY WINS WIDESPREAD EDITORIAL PRAISE

Leading Publications Unite in Acknowledging Far-Reaching Benefits to Mankind From New Scientific Triumph

Acknowledging the discovery of the famous Carrel-Dakin solution as one of the outstanding medical achievements of the century, many leading publications, including magazines, medical and scientific journals, as well as daily newspapers throughout the country, very promptly recognized the tremendous importance of this forward step, and many columns of space have been devoted to its accomplishments. A few extracts are reproduced below:

Literary Digest: "Countless lives have been saved, amputations have been avoided, wounds have been healed in a half or even a third of the time originally required by the use of the new Carrel-Dakin treatment of infected wounds. It is therefore gratifying to know that the inventors of this new antiseptic are returning to this country to make it available here and, it reads, it is to be manufactured by Dr. Alexis Carrel, son of the famous Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in New York before he entered the French service, and his return on special furlough to set up a hospital in the Grounds of and under the auspices of the Institute is especially appropriate. According to an article in La Nature (Paris), the Carrel-Dakin method has been spoken of as the greatest medical discovery since the days of Lister. The basic idea seems to be that as practically all wounds in war become at least slightly infected, the most important thing is to destroy the infection by antiseptics rather than merely to keep out infection by antiseptic treatment."

Collier's Weekly: "Today, thanks to Doctors Carrel and Dakin's tireless efforts, an acknowledged revolution has been wrought in the treatment of infection, and the lesson of the battle front is being brought into our everyday life, with consequences of incalculable good."

Scientific American: "While originally conceived to aid only the battlefield surgeon, the Carrel-Dakin treatment is rapidly proving its value in both civil and industrial surgery.

"In civil surgery, the Carrel-Dakin treatment of infected wounds has been of marked success and its application is daily widening. Thus industries of the most dangerous sort, being subject to especially, the work of dealing with the results of accidents, the victim is being restored to health and strength with a minimum of complication . . . . Such is one blessing born of the war."

International Journal of Surgery:

"In this war infection has played about the most important role in surgery. There has not been a great advance in the treatment of infected wounds in the last fifty years, since the beginning of the war about 75 per cent. of the amputations were performed because of infection and not because of the purely traumatic condition of the limb—about the same percentage as was performed in other great wars. Dr. Keen saw eighty cases of compound comminuted fracture of the thigh. Each one was dressed before his eyes and not a drop of pus was to be seen. Dr. Keen says that in any hospital in the world he would have regarded this as an unexpected and almost unattainable triumph.

In contrasting surgical methods of Civil War days with practices developed by the Carrel-Dakin treatment, Dr. Keen's comment impressed forcibly the illusion that unhappily exists today among thousands who have been misinformed about disinfectants, deodorants and germicides. "We knew absolutely nothing about bacteria and their dangers, or about real disinfection," writes Dr. Keen. "Anything which covered up a bad smell we then called a disinfectant."

3 ARRESTS ARE PREDICTED IN HALL MURDER

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 20 (By International News Service).—Claiming that they were near a solution of the murder of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, wealthy rector of the fashionable Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and the choir singer, Mrs. James Mills, Somerset County authorities intimated today that a woman and two men may be arrested within 24 hours.

NEW CLEWS FOUND.

Prosecuting Attorney A. M. Beekman of Somerset County said that new evidence had been found and that "decided progress" had been made toward solving the mystery.

A new chain of evidence has been pieced together based on clews followed after the arrest of Clifford Hayes and Raymond Schneider. Schneider made a false "confession," accusing Hayes of the crime, and the latter is now at liberty. Schneider is still held in jail charged with perjury and corrupting the morals of fifteen-year-old Pearl Balmer.

CASE WELL IN HAND.

Also it is learned from an authoritative source that Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Hall had quarreled a short time before the double killing. It is assumed that this quarrel followed the disclosure that Dr. Hall was madly infatuated with Mrs. Mills and was showering heartburning affections upon her day after day.

Failure of Governor Edwards to confer with the Middlesex and Somerset county prosecutors during his brief stay in this city for a political speech after appeals had been made to him to intervene personally, indicated to observers that he had received assurances that the local authorities had the case well in hand.

STEVENS HAS TOLD ALL.

"There is no blood upon my hands."

This emphatic declaration was made today by Henry Stevens, brother of Mrs. Hall, widow of the murdered pastor.

Stevens has been called for interrogation several times. This is the first statement he has made to the press.

"If I had guilty knowledge of this awful thing," continued Stevens, "my conscience would accuse me without ceasing all day and in the silent watches of the night.

"I know no more who it was that took the lives of my brother-in-law, Dr. Hall, and Mrs. Mills, nor the circumstances under which they went to their death last month than any person in South Africa.

"When a man is innocent of wrong-doing he has no fear. Well, I have no fear. I know that nothing can happen to me. I have told the authorities all I know.

Nationally Advertised Brands of Clothes

For Men and Young Men

---the store that has taken Boston by storm and made itself the centre of attraction for clothing buyers as no store of its kind ever did before! And no wonder! It presents opportunities for selection never before offered to the public---not merely one or two well-known brands, but FORTY of them! It's more like an Exhibition Hall, displaying in an almost endless procession of models, fabrics and patterns of practically every nationally famous maker.

Suits, Top Coats and Overcoats

Over 25,000 of them—For Men and Young Men

$22.50 $25 $30 $35 $40 $45 $50 $55 $60

Thanks to our vast purchasing power for a great chain of stores, our low operating expense, and the narrow margin of profit on which we can operate, we are able to save you $5 to $15 on your purchase.

No matter what your size or proportion may be, we can fit you. For students, 31 to 36. For men and young men, regulars, 33 to 48; shorts, 33 to 42; longs, 36 to 42. Stouts and extra sizes (our specialty), 37 to 52.

A striking example of our value-giving at

$25 is a popular price with many clothing buyers, and in view of this fact we have chosen thousands of Suits, Top Coats and Overcoats from the lines of the 40 nationally famous makers whose merchandise we feature, to demonstrate the wonderful values we are able to offer.

The fabrics and patterns are overwhelming in their variety. No matter what your size or proportion, you can be fitted. "Students," sizes 31 to 36. For men and young men—regulars, shorts, stouts and longs, sizes 33 to 52.

2-Pants Suits

There is a popular demand for TWO-PANTS Suits—a very large demand—and we cater to it, maintaining the same high standard of value in these as in suits with one pair of pants. Instead of making it necessary for a man to take two pairs of pants with a suit, whether he wants it that way or not, we make it optional with the buyer, by basing all of our prices on one-pants suits, charging for an additional pair as follows:

$5.00 Extra for additional Pants with $25 Suits

$6.50 Extra for additional Pants with $30 Suits

MAY TRAP 50 IN THEFTS AT POSTOFFICE

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 20.—Postal inspectors believed that with the arraignment today of a number of the forty-one suspended postal clerks and substitutes on charges of thefts from United States mail the inside story of the second big mail robbery in Council Bluffs within two years would be learned. Six men pleaded guilty today and were held for the Grand Jury.

Authorities announced that twenty-five of the suspended men had admitted thefts of articles from broken packages, that eight others had confessed to minor thefts and that before the investigation is concluded a total of fifty of the ninety men employed in the Union Pacific Transfer Terminal might be implicated.

The wholesale suspensions are the result of investigations covering two months.

RUSSIA WARNS GREAT BRITAIN AND ITALY

Moscow, Oct. 20 (By the Associated Press).—The repeated refusal of the powers to take into consideration Russia's most elementary and just demands, far from contributing to the consolidation of a general peace creates conditions which are likely to bring serious international complications, says the note addressed to Great Britain and Italy by the Soviet Foreign Minister, M. Tchitcherin.

Considering Russia's geographic position and the political boundaries uniting her with some of the Black Sea states, says the note, it should be quite evident that a peaceful solution of the Near Eastern problem is impossible without Soviet participation in the treaty negotiations.

It is pointed out that having recognized by the treaty of March, 1921, the Turkish frontiers as laid down by the Angora national pact, the Russian government thereby took effective part in solving the Near East question without limiting itself to consideration of the status of the Straits of Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. The Straits question, it is added, cannot be separated from the problem as a whole, and if it were submitted to a separate conference no tangible results could ensue.

FIND MAN DEAD ON RAILROAD TRACKS

The body of a man, apparently a wood picker, was found today by Patrolmen Hill and Bierman lying between tracks 3 and 4, near Brookline avenue bridge, Back Bay.

Through John J. McLaughlin of No. 957 Massachusetts avenue, the officers were given information that is expected to lead to identification. He says the victim bore the name of McGann.

The dead man was about fifty years of age, weighed around 145 pounds, was five feet four inches, wore a brown suit, red sweater, gray felt hat, low brown shoes, white shirt with fine lavender stripe and black socks.

GEORGETTE HAS BRAND NEW 'GRANDMA'

New York, Oct. 20.—Miss Georgette Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan and known off stage as Mrs. J. William Souther, became the possessor of a brand new grandmother-in-law last Wednesday, it developed today.

The bride is thirty-five. Souther and she went to the rectory of the Rev. John Q. Martin of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Clinton for the wedding ceremony.

Souther, whose first wife died many years ago, is the father of George Souther of Hudson, N. Y. The latter has two sons, J. William and George, junior. The former figured in the Palm Beach elopement with Miss Cohan in February, 1921.

HUB NAVY YARD SAFE, DENBY DECLARES

Charlestown Navy Yard will continue to function—at least for the present.

Secretary Edwin S. Denby, after inspection today, said:

"There is nothing being contemplated in regard to abolition of this yard. A board of six officers is now deciding which of the bases are necessary and which can be abolished."

The assertion of Secretary Denby stopped rumors current for months that the local yard was slated to go.

Secretary Denby and Mrs. Denby were escorted to the commandant's house, where they were greeted by Rear-Admiral Henry A. Wiley. All the officers attached to the yard were in waiting before the house in full dress uniform. The Marine guard and Marine band paraded, after which a salute of nineteen guns was fired.

The Secretary then visited the various ships. Aboard the Florida he met Rear-Admiral Newton A. McCully. On Sunday he will inspect Portsmouth Navy Yard.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff "Use Liquid Arvon"

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

"Draw Out Thy Soul to the Hungry, and Satisfy the Afflicted"

A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

THE WHITE HOUSE
Washington

October 9, 1922.

Gentlemen:

Not since the great war has the whole civilized world been so shocked and startled as during the past four weeks. The terrible and appalling tragedy which has been enacted in the Near East, leaving in its wake hundreds of thousands of shelterless, famished men, women and children, makes a call to the heart of the American people which can not be ignored. From East, North, South and West have come to me evidences of the deep-seated desire of our people that something be done to give them an opportunity to crystallize their wide-spread sympathy into a life-saving service.

I am rejoiced to know that the great machinery of your organizations has already been started into action to the end that this great body of suffering souls may be rescued promptly from the threatened starvation and death which they face this Winter.

As the people of America have given, and given generously in every great crisis that has occurred in China, Russia, India, and all parts of the world, so they must give, and give a great sum now,—millions of dollars,—if the lives of these victims are to be saved. No appeal of real need from whatever part of the world has ever been made in vain to America.

Very truly yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

Judge John Barton Payne,
Chairman, American Red Cross.
Dr. James L. Barton,
Chairman, Near East Relief.

A LETTER FROM THE NEAR EAST RELIEF:

New York, September 26, 1922.

Mr. R. J. Cuddihy,
The Literary Digest,
New York City.
Dear Mr. Cuddihy:

In the face of the unprecedented tragedy of Smyrna, we turn to you and the Literary Digest for help.

It is not for the thousands of dead that we plead; they are past our aid. It is for the living, crushed with despair of spirit and anguish of body that we turn to you and through you to the benevolent heart of humanity.

More than a half million absolutely foodless, shelterless, helpless and hopeless refugees are landed upon the islands, or huddled along the shores of the Aegean Sea in abject despair. Terror-stricken groups are awaiting death in Smyrna and other ports in Asia. Innocent, unprotected girls and women and children by tens of thousands are being carried into captivity.

Pestilence stalking among the living adds its horror to starvation.

Many in the nightmare of their crucifixion seek relief in self-destruction, while others find release in insanity.

While baffled by the perplexing political situation we can be true to our divine instinct of sympathy. Our sympathy, however, will become poison unless we transmute it into action.

The starving ask for bread—shall we respond with a heart of stone?

Sincerely yours,
Chairman.

A LETTER FROM THE AMERICAN RED CROSS:

Washington, D. C., October 9, 1922.

My Dear Mr. Cuddihy:

I have received from the President an earnest appeal to use the resources of the American Red Cross in meeting the distress and suffering resulting from the recent disaster in the Near East. I need not assure you that the Red Cross, as always, will put its large and influential membership back of this appeal. We, however, feel keenly the need of that type of co-operation which the Literary Digest is peculiarly able to give, and in behalf of the American Red Cross I request you to do everything that you can through your pages in placing the burden of this appeal before the American public.

Cordially yours,
JOHN BARTON PAYNE,
Chairman.

Mr. R. J. Cuddihy,
The Literary Digest,
354 Fourth Avenue,
New York City.

In immediate response the following editorial was published in The Literary Digest, October 21st:

DRIVEN FROM THEIR HOMES by fire and sword—beaten, trampled, robbed—more than half a million men, women, and little children are being swept along to starvation, madness, and self-destruction in the Near East.

Herded in the streets, like cattle for the slaughter; huddled on the brink of the sea, and casting themselves, crazed by hunger and fear, into the dark waters; dragged from the burning hell of Smyrna, only to be thrust by their rescuers into the slower hell of Mitylene, and Saloniki and other havens of "refuge," which now are crowded centers of starvation and breeding-grounds of pestilence—those who are suffering such martyrdom have only one hope of salvation from their nightmare of crucifixion. That hope is YOU—Americans!

Thousands perished when Smyrna was bathed in torrents of blood. Now the city is a vast sepulchre of ashes. You can do nothing for the dead. But the lives of half a million others are yours to-day for the purchase. They are stretching their hands to you now out of the horrible pit. Lift them up to life!

The appeal in their behalf which comes to you from the President of the United States is to be heeded, because you are one of the great-hearted Americans to whom this letter is written. The appeal from the Near East Relief and the American Red Cross through their chairmen is to be heeded, because your ears are open to such a call for help in this terrible emergency. But stronger than the call of President, or of Relief Committees, stronger than any urgent words The Literary Digest can say to you, knowing so well your unfailing tenderness and quick generosity when the hunger, and sorrow, and gaunt suffering of mothers and babes cry out to you to comfort, and to save them alive—stronger than all written or spoken appeal is the hot, eager demand of your own sympathetic heart that cannot regard such bitter pain and need without straining to the utmost for their instant relief.

The picture is so full of terror and anguish words cannot portray it. Mark O. Prentiss, for the Near East Relief, cables: "I have seen terrible sights until my senses are numb, but the sight of 200,000 people, mostly women and children, being penned up and burning, and those escaping being driven to a barren, devastated country for starvation, is past all comprehension." That was in Smyrna. Hundreds of thousands more, both Christians and Jews, fleeing from persecution and the sword, are crowding the other ports of Asia and the nearby islands of the sea awaiting rescue—or death. In Saloniki a hundred thousand are herded in deplorable confusion. The city has been in ruins since the great fire of 1918 and affords little more shelter than Smyrna. In the island of Mitylene another hundred thousand penniless fugitives have sought refuge only to find there a new danger of pestilence and a more convenient harbor of starvation.

Panic has seized upon the frightened wanderers. Many have even cast themselves into the flames of their own homes. Food is gone, even water to drink is at a premium. Families are broken up, while parents in frenzy of despair seek their lost children. Hundreds of mothers have given premature birth to infants in the midst of terror and death. Half-fed babies, covered with scurvy, try in vain to draw nourishment from their mothers' empty breasts.

Quick compassion is needed; delay means death for scores of thousands who might be saved. Something heroic in giving is needed. You are not there in the midst of the terror and the frantic cries for help. If you were, you would leap into the sea, if need be, or brave the flames, the sword, the plague, to snatch back from death some helpless woman or little child. You would not see them perish in agony before your eyes if you could save them, even at the risk of your life. Here, in this smiling land of comfort, where your home is safe, and your loved ones dwell in peace, that same terror and anguish of helpless women and children come to you across the sea and call to all that is heroic and generous in your heart.

"Whoso hath this world's good and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him"—ah, but the Master did not mean you. Your heart is warm with compassion and your hand will be open wide with help. Perhaps you will feel a moment of shuddering pity for those shriveled souls, if there be any such in this land of plenty, who revel in abundance and refuse to share it, to whom the Master said, "Woe unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger. Woe unto you that laugh now! for ye shall weep." And then you will seize gladly upon that other divine word of the Christ and send it across the sea with your speedy gifts to comfort and save, and your gifts will make good the message: "Blessed are ye that hunger now; for ye shall be filled. Blessed are ye that weep now; for ye shall laugh!"

The Literary Digest well knows your good works; it well knows that you are tireless and always ready to save and to comfort. You will now respond instantly to this call. What The Digest has done while waiting to tell you the facts has been done in utter faith in you and in your overwhelming response. The great ship Clontarf has discharged its load of food, and the starving fugitives have already eaten the bread baked from the flour in that cargo. It is you who did this, because when, on September 25th, a committee of the Near East Relief, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. called upon The Literary Digest to help in this awful emergency, and no funds were then available, we discounted our faith in you and borrowed the $176,000 and bought the entire food cargo of the Clontarf. We told the committee to keep on buying other shiploads of food until the pitiful need was satisfied. "He gives twice who gives quickly," and we are confidently depending upon you to make this act your own by a great outpouring of gifts to pay for this first cargo of food and to follow it with others. We appeal to all the churches in America that have been the depositories of the sacred ideals of our nation; we appeal to the thinking and working classes of our broad land, to all the institutions and organizations that have for their object the safeguarding of human rights and human lives. As God has blessed you, as He has given you happy homes and laughing children, as He has been merciful to you, have mercy upon these, His people.

The Literary Digest, standing shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart with you in this urgent task, will start the fund with its own contribution of $10,000 to help feed these starving fugitives. And now we urge all who read these words to send a perfect storm of checks to provide food, and shelter, and medical care for the half million sufferers in this awful inferno of the Near East.

They can never repay you—those homeless ones, those tortured women and pitiful children. You will never see them face to face, nor look into their eyes shining with gratitude—never? Yes, perhaps you will. But now, the blessed Christ bids you give, and He will repay, for it was He who said, "Do good and lend, hoping for nothing again, and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the Children of the Highest."

President Harding has appointed as a Special Committee, with Will H. Hays as Chairman, the following representatives of eight national organizations who will co-operate in this great work of relief. Dr. John R. Mott, of the Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. John French, of the Y. W. C. A.; James A. Flaherty, of the Knights of Columbus; Felix Warburg, of the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee; Dr. Robert E. Speer, of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; Dr. James L. Barton, of the Near East Relief; Herbert Hoover, of the American Relief Administration; Judge John Barton Payne, of the American Red Cross; and R. J. Cuddihy, of The Literary Digest.

Why it was necessary for him to have so many aliases.

LITTLE WIFE'S STORY.

Found today by an American reporter, the little wife told this story:

"I have always been a home girl, and at times rather lonely. My mother's life had been made miserable by a drunken husband. That taught me not to trust men, and I kept away from them.

"I used to give exhibition dances. One night I gave such a dance at a spiritualist meeting in Deland Hall. My mother was with me. We were introduced to Doucet as a Mr. George Williams. Although short of stature, and in many ways effeminate, he was a striking figure, with flashing dark eyes and soft, slender hands.

He said he was a practicing medium.

"He gave us to understand he was very wealthy. He began to woo me, telling me he had a beautiful love nest at Saugus, in the woods. That, he explained, would be our Summer home. I finally agreed to marry him. We went for our honeymoon to the Arlington Hotel. He began to practice some of his evil love hallucinetic touch tricks on me. It was vile and I could not stand it. He told me then of his studies under Svoboda and how he had improved on Svoboda's methods.

PAWNED HER JEWELS.

"Before the week was over I had begun to feel the pinch of hunger. He confessed to me that he had no money. He pawned my watch, my ring and a pin I owned to buy food. When we left the hotel they kept my new bridal gown, and all of my other pretty wedding clothes because we couldn't pay our hotel bill of $16.

"When he persisted in compelling me to submit to his practice of laying on of hands for his comsions evolution, I went to the police with my story."

Mrs. Doucet said she would name Mrs. Louise Francis, a medium of Medford, in her suit for annulment. It was through Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Doucet says, that her husband heard of the jewels in the possession of Albert Butters, ex-sergeant of police of Wilmington. Her husband threatened Butters with exposure, secured the jewels and was pawning them when he was arrested, she said.

"To Be Born Again"

FAMOUS BEAUTY PLANS NEVER TO GROW OLD

By CECILE SOREL.
(Famous French beauty who arrived on the Homeric.)

New York, Oct. 20.—My coming to America is the beginning of a new life; I shall be born again. And thus I shall never grow old.

Many times I have been asked the secret of retaining the spirit of youth in age.

"You are a miracle," said an allied general to me one night.

But it is no miracle; it is merely the practice of my lifelong theory that to remain young a woman must always march ahead, must eternally progress, in her home life as much as in her professional career.

If I have a friend who does not progress with me I drop him. Even love must be constantly renewed to remain green.

For ten years I have always dressed and acted the part of one upholding the beauty and traditions of the seventeenth century. It has become a part of me—so much a part in fact, that to change now is the hardest thing I have ever done.

But unless I do change, unless I progress, unless I adopt a new framework to my life and thereby new ideas and new ideals, I realize I am doomed to age.

My visit to America is the beginning of the new life. Cecile Sorel will no longer be the same either inwardly or outwardly.

And when I feel I am growing old in my new role, I shall change again. And thus I shall never grow old.

AUTO FATALLY HURTS SOUTH END RESIDENT

Michael Flynn.

Michael Flynn, fifty-six years old, of No. 16 East Dedham street, South End, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile operated by Nathan Solomon of No. 4 Decatur street, at Washington and East Dedham streets. The front wheels passed over Flynn's body after he was knocked down. At the City Hospital it was found he had suffered a fractured skull, fractured ribs and other internal injuries.

DRY SHIP LAW IS BEFORE CABINET

Washington, Oct. 20 (By International News Service).—The application of Attorney General Daugherty's "bone dry" ruling was discussed by President Harding's Cabinet today, particularly with regard to the barlehips which may be imposed upon island possessions of the United States by strict enforcement of the Volstead Act.

It was indicated that enforcement on the islands would be held in abeyance until the Supreme Court renders a decision on the Daugherty opinion.

The Attorney General was not present at the meeting.

TWENTY-THREE FACE DEATH IN STORM

They had no sooner started when another rush of water swept over the decks. With it the bowsprit went. The gale increased in fury. The raging sea battered the schooner. Another wave over the decks. The mainmast went.

All night the men worked desperately with axes, clearing the wreckage. Early yesterday the gasoline engines of the schooner started her on the way home. She bucked a stiff northwest gale all the way to port.

The Ruth and Margaret discharged her cargo of fish and work was begun at once to repair the rigging and other damage, amounting to about $1,000. When the captain, the cook, the extra hand and the twenty fishermen got into dry clothes and had a sip of tea, they were none the worse for their experience.

The JAQUETTE
—vogue of the hour

A crepe de chine jaquette, of course,—embroidered

No list of jaquettes could omit crepe de chine, especially one as smart as this, embroidered all-over. And such lovely color combinations! Gray and navy, blue and gray, tan and brown, henna and tan, barberry and black. $5.75.

Matelasse re-enforces itself with chain-stitching

As though matelasse were not claim enough to smartness, this rich satin jaquette adds heavy chain-stitching in an intricate design, with plain revers and cuffs. $12.50.

The gleam of silver marks the 1922 mode

Like a shining thread, the gleam of silver runs through fall fashions—and it appears here charmingly offset upon a background of dark satin matelasse. $18.75.

Faintly traced here—the metallic mode

Dull gold threads, barely visible among the "blisters" of matelasse—wisely choose a design which adapts itself with equal grace to the severity of a twill suit, or the richness of a broadcloth skirt. $7.50.

Matelasse confines itself here to dark colors

Matelasse, most fashionable of all fall fabrics, appears in all its richness in these $5.75 jaquettes. Since no fall wardrobe should be without at least one jaquette, what better style to start with than this? $5.75.

Plain satin, to emphasize the charm of quilted trimming

Heavy, rich satin, made richer still by the addition of collar, cuffs and hipband of heavy quilted satin, outlined with dull tinsel thread. Note the heavy, antique metal clasp. Navy, black, brown. $10.50.

Jaquette practical in long-wearing tricolette

With true Filene ingenuity, the Blouse Shop interprets the smartness of the jaquette in a fabric that has proven its worth and charm to hundreds of women, especially business women. Brown, black or navy. $5.75.

jealousy, cruel as the grave—and you realize it.

If they find the woman the jury will set her free. Yet they convict and sentence to life imprisonment another woman, Giberson, who killed her husband.

She killed him because she wanted another man—so the jury believed. If she had killed her husband because she wanted HIM she would probably have been acquitted—custom makes that permissible. But you must not kill your own husband or wife because you want another. Juries won't permit that. We have our "tribal" laws and customs in our civilization, as all savages have them.

The biggest railroad in the world is to be created by combining four lines: Great Northern, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

The capital of the new giant will be two and a half billions. Fifty thousand miles of trackage will be included in the deal—but the bigger the better, if well managed and with some respect for public interest, and the fact that the public alone makes the railroads.

Getting rid of separate and useless sets of officials, replacing costly competition with co-operation, should do wonders in economy.

But the railroad problem will not be solved until this country has one great railroad, as it has one great postoffice, OWNED BY THE PEOPLE.

President Harding says that prohibition will never be taken out of the Constitution, and it won't, without some great change in public opinion.

The change would have to be more than a mere majority, more even than a three-quarters majority. Three-quarters of the States are needed to change the Constitution. And prohibition will get that number.

However, "never" is a long time. The laws of Hammurabi seemed eternal in his day, probably, but they have changed.

What is hard to realize is that some day men will need no laws. It won't be necessary to tell them not to murder, steal, take drugs, cheat or get drunk. It's a long way off, but it's coming, and the beginning of civilization will come with it.

ANTI-FILM CENSORSHIP CAMPAIGN TO COVER STATE

FOREIGN BORN CITIZENS TO BE ENROLLED

The Committee of Massachusetts Citizens Against State Censorship has taken steps to instruct the non-English speaking people of Massachusetts in the sinister results of moving picture censorship.

Miss Alice Verda of No. 172A Washington street, Lynn, has been appointed to tour the State and organize anti-censorship clubs among the Polish residents. Although American-born, Miss Verda is a fluent Polish speaker. She will work among the Polish voters, so that they may know clearly the real object of this bill, that will, if it passes, deprive them of another liberty.

It is expected that this action will soon be followed by the naming of girls of other languages to make similar campaigns.

From Fall River comes the news that the executive committees of the carders and weavers unions have voted to join in the censorship fight.

The Drama League of Boston has sent out a warning to its members, urging them to turn out in full force on election day, to vote against censorship.

Get into the Boston American's contest against censorship. A prize of $250 will be paid for the best letter on the subject; $100 for the second best and $50 for the third. The letters are coming in, thick and fast, but there is room for more. Here are a few:

Editor Boston American:

The proposed censorship of moving pictures in Massachusetts means that a bureaucratic tyranny again threatens the liberties of America. The proposal marks a new attempt on the part of bureaucracy to fasten its yoke upon the individual and curb him in the exercises of his right.

Granted that movies are occasionally harmful. So are books, the theatre, magazines, the newspapers, the schools and colleges. Why censor the movies, as great an education influence as any of the others? Why should the movies be singled out for censorship? If we were to have censorships in that, why not have it in everything else, from private dances to the way people must dress?

There is a proper and improper sphere of governmental action. There is a limit beyond which the government can not interfere with the liberties of the individual without encouraging in him vices greater than those which it has sought to suppress.

Censorship cannot be carried out without adding a large number of officials to the pay-rolls and the attempt to carry it out would not only put a severe burden on the tax-payer but arouse, in many, a desire to taste of the forbidden. Repression never taught good morals. Repression never taught good morals. VIRGINIA WILKINS.

No. 28 Charles street.

WHY SECOND CENSORSHIP.

Editor Boston American:

The National Board of Censors is all that is necessary to eliminate objectionable films, and I feel confident that nothing immoral or objectionable gets by them.

So why have them censored a second time by a small body who can only give their own private opinion on the subject. The public is the final authority and alone must be satisfied. The newspapers would not let anything objectionable be shown more than once. The producers have enough heart-breaking things to contend with now.

First with the National Board of Censors and then with the distributors who frequently, by an error of judgment, do not place a film to the best advantage, simply because in their private opinion it will not appeal to the public. And then if it must pass a State censor it will be the death of many a masterpiece.

LOCKED OUT TENANT APPEALS TO COURT

Harold MacDonald has brought a bill in equity in the Superior Court against Bridget and Patrick J. Ribbin, asking that they be enjoined from preventing his occupancy of a flat in a house at No. 12 Branch street, owned by Mrs. Ribbin, and in which she and her husband live.

MacDonald says he is not in arrears for rent nor has his tenancy been terminated, but the respondents have changed the lock of the front door and refuse to furnish him with a key. He also says that they have put a lock on his coal bin. The case will come before Judge Wait on Friday.

William Burnham Dies

New York, Oct. 20—William Burnham, seventy, socially prominent here and in Boston, died yesterday of apoplexy.

B. U. STUDENTS OPPOSED TO FILM CENSOR

Boston University students, male and female, the business men and women of tomorrow, do not favor censorship of the films. And their reasons correspond, in main, with the arguments presented against censorship, by their brothers and sisters in the stores, the shops and the offices of the busy city.

Sufficient law at present, unnecessary taxation and duplication of work are some of their arguments. Here is what a few of them say:

George McGunigle, No. 286 Webster street, East Boston, says:

"I certainly would not like to think of a censored newspaper business. If the censorship of motion pictures becomes law, it is safe to assume that the next step will be to censor other activities and pleasures. No one has yet shown me why there is a need of movie censorship. Clearly, it is going to mar the individual pleasures of the people of this State. Likewise it will add to the taxation."

T. A. McKenna, No. 10 Bowker street, Brookline, voices himself as follows:

T. A. McKenna

"What good is it to have a National Board of Censors, if we have to have another body to censor the work of the bigger organization? I believe the law allows a city to appoint its own city censor to govern picture shows within its confines but in that case only that particular city is affected by this censor. Why burden every tax-payer in the State with this department? It will keep a large force of men busy to see that the laws are obeyed. Aside from that, it savors very strongly of the suppression of thought."

LET PUBLIC DO IT.

M. C. King of 185 Moody street, Waltham, said:

M. C. King

"The Pilgrims sailed from England to escape what was practically censorship. And yet, right here in our own State, some people would make us think that we will benefit greatly by the same kind of suppression that the Pilgrims left England to get away from. I believe in keeping the films clean but I think there are other less drastic ways of doing so. Let the public do it own censoring and then the public can blame no one but itself if improper pictures get by."

WIDOW LOSES HER FIGHT FOR ESTATE

Worcester, Oct. 20—The rulings of Assistant District Attorney Chas. H. Rugg, as master in the case of Ella M. Aitchison of Worcester against Judge Frederick H. Chamberlain, as trustee, and Irving F. Morey, as executor, of the will of George T. Aitchison are to stand. A Supreme Court decree upholding his findings for the trustee and executor were filed today in Superior Court.

HUSBAND LEFT HER, ASSERTS ACTRESS

The divorce suit brought in Suffolk Superior Court by Mrs. Jessamine Hockwell, known on the stage as Jessamine Newcombe, a member of the Henry Jewett Company, was taken under advisement by Judge Dodd after he heard the testimony of the actress.

She is seeking a divorce from George Hockwell of Bradford, Bradfordshire, England. Judge Bell declared that he wanted to be satisfied that the husband had been served that the suit was to be heard before he rendered a decision.

The couple were married in London on February 17, 1908. They came to America in 1913. In 1914 Mr. Hockwell left his wife, according to the testimony, and went back to England.

"The desire to go back comes on people some time," declared Judge Bell, when Mrs. Hockwell stated that she didn't intend to go to England to live with her husband.

TRAIN DITCHED BY WRECKERS; THREE DEAD

Williamsport, Ind., Oct. 20.—Three dead, five injured was the toll in the wreck of a fast Wabash flyer St. Louis to Buffalo, which struck a split rail near here early today.

The dead:

Charles L. Schmugge, Decatur Ill., engineer.

Henry W. Martin, Toledo, O., express messenger.

R. A. Smith, Toledo, O., baggageman.

The engineer, Schmurze, was killed outright. The others died later in a hospital at Lafayette.

An investigation of peculiar aspects of the wreck was begun at once, and revealed that spikes and bolts had been taken out and laid at the side of the track before the crash took place.

Fireman John Hinton, who was only slightly injured, said he saw the track with a section of the rail missing, but it was too late to stop the train.

A posse which includes the county sheriff and a number of railroad detectives are trying to find the train wreckers.

The engine and seven coaches were hurled into a ditch and burned. It was regarded as miraculous that more persons were not killed.

TAKE COUSINS TO PRISON ON STRETCHER

The first attempt was made by slashing his wrist immediately after the shooting of Mrs. Cousins at Westbrook on April 17 last.

AIMEE GOURAUD SETTLES WITH COUNT SHE THREW OUT OF DOORS

$10,000 LOVE SUIT ALSO HUSHED UP BY BEAUTY

Paris, Oct. 20—Aimee Crocker Gouraud today settled out of court for $500 the suit brought against her on appeal by Count Ferri Pinani, who alleged unpaid salary as her secretary.

Mrs. Gouraud, formerly Princess Mirk noff, is the daughter of the late Edwin Bryant Crocker, California millionaire.

Aimee's defense at the original hearing last Spring was that Count Pinani was not her secretary but her companion, and therefore was not entitled to salary. She affirmed that she threw him out because he brought woman friends to her house.

Incidentally it was reported that Aimee has also settled out of court for $4,000 a suit for $10,000 brought against her in New York by Miss Bruno Schul, who alleged alienation of her husband's affections. Count Pinani is now employed as a scenario editor.

It is learned that Aimee is about to sell her fantastically furnished home in Rue Vineuse in order to purchase a villa on the Riviera. Pinani is to retire to a quiet life.

20 STUDENTS HURT IN FIGHT WITH RIVALS

Los Angeles, Oct. 20—More than a score of students at the southern branch of the University of California were injured, one possibly fatally and at least three seriously early today at a "pajamerino" party in celebration of a football game tomorrow. They were attacked by 200 students of a rival university. They fought with "gasoline bombs," rags saturated and bottles filled with gasoline, clubs, fists and bricks. A riot call brought 200 policemen before the fracas could be quelled. Several students lay unconscious on the campus when the ambulances arrived.

MRS. SADIE NILSSON MURRAY

Mrs. Sadie Nilsson Murray, claiming to be a daughter of Madame Christine Nilsson, noted Swedish concert singer, has the backing of Dr. Lucius Knowles Tingey of No. 176½ Essex street, Salem, who asserts that he was the attending physician at the time of Mrs. Murray's birth and that her mother was Madame Nilsson. Her father, he declares, was August Rosard, the singer's first husband.

WIFE SAYS MATE SPAT ON HER

Anthony Carbone, twenty-three and fierce, stepped from the shadow of a tree apart on his wife, struck her and called her names.

So Mrs. Frances Carbone, eighteen and comely, testified in Chelsea District Court today.

Anthony, says Frances, has an aversion for work and decrees that he should go forth and work so that the House of Carbone may exist. Her refusal to support him drew a wrath which was emphasized by blows, she asserted.

Her charge of assault and battery was continued one week, Mrs. Carbone is seeking a divorce. She said she had been married two years and that she married Carbone because she feared he would kill her if she didn't.

FORTUNE HUNTING BOY DISILLUSIONED

George Kolesnikoff fourteen decided he would make his own way in the world. So he left his parents' home, No. 50 Adams street, East Weymouth and came to Boston.

But carving his fortune was so much more difficult than in the story books he had read and it was so cold and he got so hungry for he had no money to buy a meal that he grew desperate.

So he went down to South Station hoping that there, perhaps before he died, he might see someone from his home town who would help him just a bit. But he met a policeman instead, and he'll go home today.

MAYFLOWER IN RACE WITH HOWARD

Gloucester, Oct. 20—Boston's debarred schooner, the Mayflower today raced the defeated Elizabeth Howard off here while Bluenose, Canadian defender, made a practice spin over the race course, and the Henry Ford, American challenger, loaded new ballast after coming off the ways.

Mayflower, rakish and trim, with Charles Francis Adams, skipper of the Resolute in the last America cup races, and a distinguished group aboard, won the plaudits of the thronged ashore as she swept up to the Elizabeth Howard on the wings of a fresh nor'wester.

A few bets were made, but the Boston schooner was such an overwhelming favorite that little money was posted.

MAYFLOWER LEADS.

Mayflower, on the first leg of the course, sped ahead and seemed to uphold the repeated assertions that she is the fastest fisherman afloat.

Henry Ford was to get out on the course late today. The ballast was loaded according to instructions of Captain Clayton Morrissey, who directed the work even though suffering from a severe cold that may possibly bar him from skippering the Ford tomorrow.

Confidence is growing here in the ability of the Yankee vessel to outdistance the Canadian defender. Everyone in Gloucester is ready to back the home favorite to the limit. Gloucester fisher folk are betting like college boys. Thus far all Canadian money has been snapped up as fast as offered. The betting has been at even.

GLOUCESTER CROWDED.

Gloucester is in holiday array. All hotels are filled and household doors are reaping a golden harvest renting rooms at advanced rates.

Like the city filled and decorated is the harbor covered with craft of every description ranging from the proud racers to small fishing smacks and sailing dories all in gala dress.

In honor of Secretary Denby who arrives here tonight there is the cruiser Rochester and destroyer Isherwood, Paulding and Brooks as well as several yachts and coast guard cutters en route.

Tired? Read the Green, Is Optician's Advice

FOR that tired feeling—read the Boston American Green Edition.

DR. JOSEPH C. RICHMOND

So advises Dr. Joseph C. Richmond, successful School street optician.

"Green, of all the primary colors," says Dr. Richmond, "is very restful to the retina. Eyes fatigued by a day's work are rested by this color. It is to the eyes what a rub down is to the tired body. In other words, the green has a positive therapeutic effect on the eyes, as well as the negative effect of being harmless.

"Green as a background, when without a gloss, is an ideal contrast for black print, especially when it is read under artificial light in trains or in the home. I think the Boston American has started a big thing with the green edition."

MOTHER FIGHTS TO RETAIN LOVE CHILD

Providence, R. I., Oct. 20.—Announcing "I love my child and will fight to the finish any attempt to take it away from me," Mrs. Mary Payne, whose seven-year-old child, born out of wedlock, was awarded to foster parents, declared that she will start proceedings to recover the custody of her baby.

"I don't care now many decrees they hand down, little Mary is my own and belongs to me. Nothing can stop me from getting possession of her."

On May 24, 1922, little Mary was kidnaped by her father, William Payne, according to the story told the police, and was taken away. A brother, John Muirhead, was also said to be in the party.

When the child was returning to her home from school she was handed into a taxicab and taken to South Manchester.

"I don't want to stay here," pleaded the child when questioned by the police. "I want to go back to Providence and mother."

The child was born in the Providence Lying-in Hospital. Later she was placed in a licensed boarding house, and when her mother failed to pay her board was turned over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The District Court granted the society custody of the child until she is twenty-one years old. Later they at

"OH! PATIENCE, TILL I HOLD YOU IN MY ARMS," RECTOR WROTE

...ing Rector, you know how I feel about them. But we don't let it trouble us. I did show her your letter to me—but you were wise to send it to Hartford—for she might have committed it to letter case from you. But she didn't ask to see it, nor send a there any news from Eleanor? As for Winifred, to forget you as seems best to you. It will be all right either way.

In regard to the break between the two women, as indicated in this letter published exclusively by the American, Miss Florence M. North, counsel for sixteen-year-old Charlotte Mills, the plain choir singer's lawyer said:

"For the last ten days that Mrs Mills was alive, Mrs Hall turned her head away from her when they met on the street and pretended not to see her. Mrs Mills was hurt and told her daughter."

Last Spring, according to Miss North the two women were good friends. It was the Rev. Mr. Hall's custom on his yearly trips with his wife to Maine to remain there over four Sundays. On his last vacation there he spent only three Sundays. In further reference to the quarrel Miss North told reporters that a scene had taken place between Mrs Mills and the rector's wife at a camp maintained by the church at Point Pleasant on the Jersey coast last Summer. Reference was made to this quarrel in a letter written by Mr. Hall to Mrs. Mills, she said.

In the opinion of Miss North a definite feeling that the rector was "hurrying to get back" seemed to grip Mrs. Hall. All of the Hall "wonder-heart" letters, some of them containing sweet pea blossoms and all of them redundant with honeyed words and phrases indicating the impatience of the love stricken minister radiate with his longing to leave his vacation residence.

The American's letters first in treated the nature of the relations between the minister and his choir singer. Next they demonstrated beyond dispute that the twain were accustomed to fulfill trysts near Mrs Russ's Lane and not far from the place where the two bodies were found on September 16. Today's remarkable development, forming the third phase of major evidence in the series of phonographic letters is that there was a definite "break" between the two women.

In an exclusive interview The American had with Miss Cynthia Clement, postmaster at Seal Harbor it was said that the Rev. Mr. Hall called frequently at the post office. That he seemed highly excited at times was developed. When there was no mail for him there was manner was that of a dejected person.

Here is the text of the letter by the Rev. Hall to Mrs. Mills, which shows clearly that there had been a definite "break" between the clergyman's wife and his choir singer.

You Must Hear Me

Sunday afternoon

"Dear, Dear, Dear wonder heart of mine! I feel as though I were begging an endless letter to you darling. I am talking to you so constantly asleep and awake, that I know you must hear me—but I must also try to tell you a little of all the thoughts & longings & dreams & work of art. The beauty, the wonder, the peace, the calm the strength the passion of it grows & grows every moment. It seems as though every moment of separation just binds us more strongly together & I live in dreams of what we have done & what we will do when we have the opportunity.

Every one of your dear letters have filled me with a flood of things to say. The address plan works perfectly. I do not wait, take one to read at once but I always make an opportunity very soon—and I know I have the message nearest to hand there and then. I love your feeling that our mes sages are sacred —they are. And no one shall see them, about your past. I am afraid the sweet song on the choir ride was too much for it was cold in the car coming home—& so you were tired —but it was not the sweetness of it self. We will go in together dearest heart—for, as you say, we must do everything together. Just our first opportunity we will go to Mu sic & have a day in N Y & a car could we arrange a trip—four dear letter about last Sunday. Oh I could have you write forever

Reads Over Letters

"I never want to stop reading so I read your letters over and over. I don't know who the man in church was—don t recognize the Buick car

"My 'Gypsy Trail' is a disappointment. It is a 'Book of poems for campers,' but the selections that I have read so far are not well chosen —but I haven't read much. But my dear heart must have some GOOD poems & I will be on the lookout for them. You have a poet's heart darling, and love YOUR poems. The one on "FAITH" is our latest addition

"I enjoyed the paper on Ghandi especially your markings. Oh, I could love to discuss it with you—a too long to write about. You say you have some papers for me. Save them all carefully dearest—for I love to read them & discuss them with you—so not patience, patience patience, until I have you come in my arms again.

"You ask what I do at night. The evenings are very dull. Supper is at 6—over at 6 30 or 6 45—if there is a sunset I walk down to the beach to see it. If not we sit around the reading room of the hotel until 7 30 or 8, when I get out & come over to the house where we stay and read or write to you in my book & Mrs Hall reads over about 9. You see we have rooms in one house & meals in another—the distance is seven feet as far as your house is to the church. George Kemmer was said to be in Grace Church choir & now is organist & choir master at Grace Church Orange and occupies the piano & one night he asked me to sing last Sunday

Proud of Her Loyalty

"Last Friday night was the annual pan and a big dance afterward —of course they all expected me to stay and were surprised when I walked away as soon as the play was over—I made excuses—but only ONE MATE for your gypsy soul is our loyal and true every moment dearest, I am proud of our loyalty to each other, of it a so—STRONG —STRONGER every breath

"ALBERT MILLS HALL — SHE HASN'T SAID A WORD ABOUT YOU AND I DON'T THINK HAS HANGED TOWARD YOU.—HER HER REMARKS AT POINT PLEASANT WERE POOLISH AND ENTIRELY UNKIND. FOR I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR FEELING HURT—YOU KNOW HOW I FEEL ABOUT THAT POINT-ENT. DON'T LET IT TROU YOU. I DIDN'T SHOW HER YOUR LETTER TO ME—I THOUGHT WERE WISE TO SEND IT TO HARTFORD—FOR SHE MIGHT HAVE COMMENTED IF SO LET I BE CAME FROM YOU BUT SHE DIDN'T ASK TO SEE IT— JUST SAID 'IS THERE ANY NEWS FROM ELEANOR?' AS FOR WRITING TO HER D JUST AS SEEMS BEST TO YOU— IT WILL BE ALL RIGHT EITHER WAY.

"Dearest, I am not stopping the letter—only pausing—as can't write more now. I want to write forever —I am writing my mood—day by day—good night, dear heart—every blessing for you—and I know you have been rushing thro' me these past days.

"It does seem as though we will get the most precious wonderful joy giving me strength to be patient for 10 days. I expect to preach N H Friday morning August 25. We leave here on Wednesday and reach N B Friday. Oh, such long days but I hear you saying—be strong for I am strong. I crush you—you dear, dear wonder heart

Rector When Bathing Felt Like Gay Gypsy

When he went swimming in bubble pond, near his vacation camp, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall felt like a gay gypsy" and longed for Mrs. ...anor R. Mills. It is revealed in today's installment of his Love Diary being published exclusively by The American.

SATURDAY, Aug. 5. — I was so elated over receiving your letter and Minnie's saying you were ask ing I forgot to say that, while we sailed by Hollis Pond the water was so cool and tempting that I ...t dropped off my clothes and went in my birthday suit—a guy thing—oh how I craved for you

This morning I went to the Congregational Church here—I like to feel that we are all Christians—but I really can't worship in these churches—they seem to have such a ...ise idea of God—so familiar & ...ber cheap—dear they don't know as we do—We. Wait an altar and a sense of adoration—that's after reason I read and wrote for a while ...n took a short walk around the ...and I nothing doing this evening ...I shall go to bed early. Good night, dearest—I love your Sunday ...ters & I shall wait eagerly for this one.

FRIDAY, Aug. 11.—Good morning, darling—cloudy & over cast this morning so I stayed at home—wrote some—read & did some odds and ends. Drove down some of it. Went on Western Mt. but it had to be given up—in the P. M we went to Jordon Pond for tea and on the way I stopped at Seal Harbor & found your 2 dear letters awaiting me—darling can words ever tell you how happy these love messages make me—it is your love in everything that you say that makes me so happy. Tonight there is a play "coast folks" by the Island people & dancing afterwards but I shall not stay—no, never a dance for me without my "grey wolf" snuggled beside me—good night dear heart—

SATURDAY, Aug. 12.—This hasn't been a day of any consequence, dear —this morning we went over to Seal Harbor and back on the mail boat— I went to the P. O. and another of your dear good letters was waiting for me—in the P. M. after changing plans several times, we took a walk to one of the beaches on the island called Bunker's Head—then had tea at 6—nothing doing this evening so I will get to bed early—have a little indigestion—nausea and a headache —not much—but just enough to make one feel more and more for those dear hands of yours on my head—oh how I would like to snuggle up in your arms tonight—it is what I need dearest, I know, and nothing else can satisfy me.

SUNDAY, Aug. 13.—Good morning dear heart—Sunday—it's a lovely day without you and that you'll be home on Sunday to be with me—I mean next week—I wonder do you know what tonight is dear—I love you Sunday and only Further chapters of this remarkable love diary will be published exclusively in the American.

GUILTY CONSCIENCE WILL TRAP HALL'S SLAYER, SAYS W. J. FLYNN

By WILLIAM J. FLYNN
Former Chief of United States Secret Service

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 20.—The double midnight murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, baffling and mysterious, as it seems, and craftily as it was conceived, is not going to go down in criminal annals as an unsolved murder.

I believe today after only a few hours of preliminary survey at the scene of the slaying that revelations that will draw the perpetrators (for I am convinced there are several) of the killing into the net of justice will come swiftly.

Overshadowing my first impressions in attempting to sift the mass of evidence at hand are these:

1—A guilty conscience wracked by searing fear under the weight of the midnight killing of the rector and the choir leader is undoubtedly at work planting feverish lies intending to be misleading to those seeking to unravel the case. As in so many other cases this will only aid in entrapping the guilty.

JEALOUSY CAUSED CRIME.

2—Of the two victims whose bodies were found on September 16 carefully laid out under a crabapple tree just out of sight of the lonely house on the Phillips farm, the man was shot first. The fact that the woman was shot three times in the forehead and there was apparently a knife-inflicted gash across her throat, makes me certain of this. The man, who had only bullet wound, would undoubtedly have sought to protect the woman, perhaps successfully, had it been otherwise.

3—The position of the bodies when found inclines me to belief that the slaying did not take place on the spot.

4—The slashing of Mrs. Mills' throat and the scattering of the love letters over the bodies, their position—the man's arm outstretched, the woman's resting on it and the visiting card bearing his name stuck in his shoe leaves little doubt that the crime was one committed in anger and from jealousy.

It is a principle of detective work always to consider possible alternatives to theories or obvious indications.

I have considered the possibility of suicide, for one considers everything. Yet that suggestion is easily dismissed. Except in cases of drowning, the weapon must be close at hand.

Love-pact suicides—such as this might have been—are always premeditated. The last love letter from Mrs Mills to the Rev. Hall shows she had no intention of meeting him the night of the murder at their usual trysting place, which proved to be their rendezvous with death.

Had it been murder and then suicide, the weapons—probably a knife and a revolver—would have been found.

LURED TO THEIR DOOM.

The question arises how, if Mrs. Mills did not intend in the afternoon to meet the pastor, she came to meet him at night.

Mysterious telephone messages on the evening of the tragedy summoned both. Only thorough investigation will reveal whether someone lured them to their death by means of the lightning flashing unseen along the telephone wires.

Attempts have already been made to discover who if anyone got hold of the love letters secretly exchanged between Mrs. Mills and the rector. In the establishment of a definite incentive this is important, but equally important are a number of other matters which must be attempted.

Always the death-dealing weapon that killed both of them. What make and calibre.

Assuming that the bodies were lying under the tree where found, forty-six bullets and the letters placed over them at once after disposing of the bodies would not the wind have been likely to blow them away. Could they not have been placed there later? It is another link to be established.

MYSTERY TO BE SOLVED.

These and a few other points—I am avoiding enumerating the many which have already been brought out frequently so far—will be cleared up by patience and rigid inquiries.

In solving a murder mystery, the establishing of a motive is, of course, the first step. Then the owner of the motive must be traced. There may be several persons with the same motives or different motives who may have committed the crime.

Only a careful gathering of clews running them down and sifting them, eliminating the unessential as one goes along, can bring results.

But there is one help that the solvers of crime almost invariably get from those who are professional criminals as well as those who slay under the impulses of strong and sudden passions or from brooding over powerful emotions. It is the little tell-tale mistake which is made by the most careful, a trifling neglect resulting from fear, from hurry, from final remorse—an inevitable accompaniment of the human equation in crime.

ART MORE VITAL THAN A SUBPOENA

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—Mme Matzenauer, prima donna, was under subpoena to give a deposition in the divorce suit of her chauffeur husband. Likewise she was to sing in concert. It is a law of music that singers must rest their throats the day before singing. So the deposition was postponed until next Tuesday.

What I Have Learned in 47 Years Practice

I HAVE been watching the results of constipation for 47 years, since I began the practice of medicine back in 1875. I am now 83 years old, and though from time to time the medical profession makes some wonderfully interesting experiments and tests, the fundamentals of causes and relief in this particular ailment are unchanged.

But the people take greater interest today in their health, in diet, exercise and the drinking of water. Constipation, however, will occur from time to time no matter how one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. I believe in getting as close to nature as possible, hence my remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It is made of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. Children will not willingly take bitter things. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written me to that effect.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are now sold every year, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world. I say family laxative because all in the family can use it with safety. It is mild enough for the infant in arms, effective in the most chronic constipation of an adult. The formula is on every package.

Recently there has been a new wave of drastic physics. Calomel, a mercurial that salivates and loosens teeth, has been revived; salt waters and, powders that draw needed constituents from the blood; coal tar disguised in candy form that causes skin eruptions. In a practice of 47 years I have seen any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping, and without shock to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It lowers your strength 20 per cent, hardens the arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to a druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a generous-size bottle. Take a teaspoonful that night and by morning you will be well. The cost is only about a cent a dose. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, piles, indigestion, loss of appetite or sleep, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

2 TAKEN FROM JAIL AND SHOT TO DEATH

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20—Two men recently convicted of manslaughter in Benton County last February, were taken from the county jail at Camden early today and shot to death in a vacant lot 200 yards from the jail.

The prisoners, Ed Hartley and his son, were held in connection with the murder of Connie Hartley, nephew of Ed Hartley.

USED BOTTLE TO EMPHASIZE STORY

Springfield, Oct. 20—Alexander Gehkowski had an argument with Stanley Jaborski, his roomer, over Mrs. Gehkowski, who came home from jail yesterday, where she had served a term for bootlegging. They decided to say it with bottles. It was necessary to take twenty-three stitches in Stanley's head to repair the damage.

Sees World Bread Riots Within Next 100 Years

Pittsfield, Oct. 20.—World bread riots within a century were predicted today by Dr. Charles Steinmetz, electrical wizard, in an address on "Energy" before the Rotary Club.

A food shortage within a hundred years, he said, is certain, even if we double or treble food production.

Harnessing sunlight, in his opinion, is the only solution of the threatened famine in the year 2022.

JEWS, IN 2 DAYS, RAISE $32,708 FOR PALESTINE

The Jewish home of establishing a homeland in Palestine depends upon the response of the Jews in America to the call of the Palestine Foundation Fund, declared Professor Israel Friedlaender, chairman of the department of Hebrew of the workers held at the City Club in the Greater Boston campaign to raise $250,000.

Professor Lyon, who recently returned from a tour through the Holy Land, declared thousands of Jews in the ransacked lands of Eastern Europe are eager to re-establish the ancient Jewish homeland.

The campaign of the trades teams reported having raised $16,663, making a total of $32,708 for the first two days of the campaign.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND FORCED "CONFESSION OF LOVE"

MADE HER SIGN NOTE BARING 'TRYSTS'

Mrs. Thomas Miley Denies Affair With Danvers Man Named in Husband's Suit

Gertrude, girl wife of Thomas J. Miley of Jamaica Plain, told the Suffolk Divorce Court today that her husband compelled her to write a letter to him confessing guilty love for James Madison of Danvers.

Madison is named as co-respondent in the husband's cross-libel.

Mrs. Miley testified that her husband stood over her and threatened her with violence if she refused to write the letter which he dictated and also that he assured her of a private divorce hearing if she would write it.

So she wrote the letter, [illegible] and Miley [illegible] it and mailed it [illegible] himself.

"CONFESSES" OTHER LOVE.

"The contents of that letter were all untrue," declared the girl wife. The letter, as read by Miley's counsel Attorney R. M. Walsh, were:

"No. 8 Rexbury Place,
Jamaica Plain, Jan. 19, 1921

"For the past eleven years I have loved a man whom you well remember [illegible] has again come into my life and I can never be happy with out [illegible].

"Although living all these years with you for little Jack's sake, my [illegible] is with Jim. We cannot live when love is to go. Therefore, I ask you to consider the fact that I no longer care to live with you.

"Two weeks ago Friday I met Jim Madison in Danvers. We went to Derry Tavern, where we spent the night.

"I agree to leave our boy in your care. For many hours I have pondered all this over. I find that the only solution to the problem is to leave you. I will not contest any action you may take.

"This [illegible] I refer to, you have heard of before. He is he man who entered our life once before."

Mrs. Miley seeks divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. She testified on the opening day of the trial of the cross-libels that her husband knocked her down once and that she was unconscious ten minutes.

Today when she resumed the stand for further direct examination by her attorney, Samuel Culver, she was asked if she ever was at Berry's Tavern with Jim Madison.

"No," declared the girl wife. [illegible] was asked about a letter. She [illegible] that her husband dictated it and made her write it under threat of violence. After she had declared the contents of the letter were false the missive was read by counsel for the husband.

Mrs. Miley was asked if she had ever been at Madison's house. She said she was there once with her brother at a party when the host's sister-in-law, Mrs. William Madison, and others were present. Madison, she added, drove her and her brother home.

"My husband was very jealous of Mr. Madison," she said later, "but Mr. Madison and I were only friends."

When a photograph of Madison was shown she said it was one she received before she married Miley.

Miley frequently beat her with his fists, she testified, and once slapped their boy in anger.

She declared that, after Miley had received in the mail the letter he forced her to write, he did not keep faith with her about a private divorce hearing, but told her he would force her into a criminal court. She quoted him as saying: "You will soon find yourself behind bars."

HUB RING AVENGES EXPOSE

By ERNEST T. JENKINS.

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 20.—Eleanor Barnes, used as a lure by Boston's blackmail ring and whose attempted suicide was foiled in Springfield following her arrest in a local raid and subsequent marriage to George N. Levy, a former Yale student, was brought back here from Springfield today.

Boston blackmail lawyers have deserted her in her hour of need. They were the ones who promised her the best of legal assistance to fight at tradition from Springfield. They are the same gang who, until the Boston American's expose, had for five years used the attractive twenty three year-old girl as one of many to stage "shakedowns" of wealthy men.

FACES MANY CHARGES.

The girl faces bigamy and other charges here. Rage possesses her. What she thinks of the blackmailers' desertion is unprintable. All night long, preceding her extradition here, her youthful husband sat on the hospital bed in Springfield with his arm about his tearful bride. And rage, too, consumed young Levy.

The Boston American's expose drove the blackmailers to cover. Let young Levy, who married their "queen bee" and is, by his own admission, the father of her expected child, carry the financial and other burdens. She had violated one of the gang's precepts. She was to become a mother. Let her suffer. And besides they would no longer have to send $35 weekly to her from the "home office." She had acquired a new husband able to support her. According to Levy, those are the reasons the "gang" deserted his bride.

WOMAN VISITOR.

The Boston American also learned today that Mrs. Maude Hartnett of Grampian Way, Dorchester, visited Eleanor Barnes at the Springfield General Hospital. The two women held a long conference. Eleanor promised to lend her assistance in the subject matter discussed. Maude Hartnett is the wife of William J. Hartnett, or "Harlett", by which name he is also known. Hartnett and William J. Kelley, a Boston attorney, have already been mentioned in Eleanor Barnes' story of her life. She claims both received a "cut" in the "shakedown" of Albert Victor Searice, millionaire Boston artist.

Following the Mrs. Hartnett-Barnes conference, Mrs. Hartnett or "Hartlett," as she called herself over the 'phone, put in a long distance call. She informed "Billy" she was at the Springfield hospital. The latter exclaimed:

"My God! Are you down there?"

Hartnett met his wife, Maude, soon after her arrival from Nova Scotia. She was then a schoolgirl. She is now thirty-seven, and Hartnett forty-seven. For years they were simply good friends. Came trouble for "Billy." He was convicted of bribery in removing Crocker will case in Suffolk County, and served sixteen months at Deer Island. Shortly after that, according to friends, Hartnett married Maude. This was seven years ago.

FROSTY, BUT FINE WEATHER FOR FOOTBALL

Frost tonight; good football weather tomorrow.

Local forecast reads: "Fair and somewhat colder tonight with heavy frost. Saturday fair, continued cold, fresh north to northwest winds."

Forecaster Smith allowed that tomorrow will be O. K. for the games, barring the chance of frisky winds. Sunday, he expects, will be bit warmer.

First below zero report for this season—two below at White River, Ont., early today. But it jumped to 18 above by 8 a. m.

Boston's 1 a. m. temperature of 48 fell to 38 by 7 o'clock.

ART STUDENT FREED OF THEFT CHARGES

Miss Alice Bogoson of No. 5 Fifth street, Chelsea, young art student, is back at her studies today in the Boston Normal Art School.

It took only ten minutes in a court hearing before a jury in Superior Court to establish the fact that Miss Bogoson was innocent of the charges preferred against her by Mrs. Lulu Birnbaum of No. 11 Salisboro street, Boston. Mrs. Birnbaum accused the art student of stealing a watch from her apartment.

Alice Bogoson

Many of Alice's friends from Chelsea and fellow students from the Boston Normal Art School were in court when her trial took place, and overwhelmed her with congratulations upon the prompt verdict of the jury.

BOY SENTENCED FOR $545 THEFT

Peter J. Curran, aged nineteen, of No. 32 Langdon street, Roxbury, was sentenced to Concord Reformatory today for stealing $545 from the apartment of Thomas Monohan at No. 14 Fenwick street. Curran and he went to the apartment, intending to break in, found a key hanging on the wall near the door, and used it. The money had been spent "for booze and women," according to his story.

Seeks to End Life

MRS. PAULINE FORD

Young Roxbury wife who tried suicide while despondent over separation from husband. She will recover.

GIRL GOVERNESS GETS OFF EASY FOR THEFTS

Miss Jean Cartwright, eighteen-year-old governess, who either leaped or fell from the rigging of the convict ship and later confessed to having stolen jewelry valued at $1,000, was placed on probation today by Judge Arthur P. Stone in East Cambridge Court.

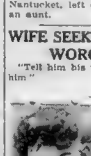
She was arrested two weeks ago as she was leaving the Boston City Hospital after having been taken there for treatment, following her trip to the convict ship. Asked to explain the jewelry and fashionable clothing she was wearing, she told the police:

"I stole the jewelry from the home of Percy Dewey of Hillcrest road, Belmont. My polo coat and hat I took from Mrs. Ruth Frama of Stephens street, Winchester."

The jewelry was exhibited in court. It consisted of a diamond platinum ring, valued at $400, and a pearl ring said to be worth $200. Miss Cartwright, whose home is in Nantucket, left court in custody of an aunt.

WIFE SEEKS MISSING WORCESTER MAN

"Tell him his wife and baby miss him."



Steven F. Gedman

This appeal concludes a letter the Boston American has received from Mrs Steven F. Gedman of No. 367 Greenwood St., Worcester.

Mr. Gedman left home August 20 to seek work in Boston, his wife writes. She has not seen him since.

Sometimes Mr Gedman uses the name "George N. Norwell." His wife would be glad to see him again under any name. "Please help me find him," she adds.

FOOD STORES DROP AS PORT DECLINES

Nearly 47,000,000 pounds of food were stored in the cold storage warehouses in this State at the beginning of this month, according to the periodical statement made today by Dr Herman C. Lythgoe, director of the State Division of Food and Drugs.

The amount in storage was about 90,000 pounds more than a year ago, but 3,000,000 less than in October, 1920.

SEES DELAY FOR TWO IN CRONKHITE CASE

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—Captain Robert Rosenbluth and Sergeant Roland R. Hothler, under arrest in the East accused of the murder of Major Alexander Cronkhite at Camp Lewis, Wash., in 1918, may by appeals on whether the Federal courts have jurisdiction delay trial for years, United States District Attorney Thomas P. Revelle said today.

FOUR GIRLS ATTEMPT SUICIDE

Three Take Poison in Love Rows; Fourth Hurls Self in Front of Trolley

Four Boston girls, three of whom were discouraged by disappointment in love, attempted to end their lives within a few hours of each other. Two are believed dying at the City Hospital, while the other two are recovering.

Those most seriously ill are Miss Helen Golden, 24 years old, of No. 654 Columbia road, Dorchester, and Miss Leona Theriault, 22 years old, of No. 28 Cumberland street, Back Bay.

The other two are Mrs. Pauline Ford, 22 years old, of No. 616 Dudley street, Roxbury, and Miss Grace Tajanian, 23 years old, of No. 3 Laurel street, Roxbury.

COLLAPSES IN STORE.

Mrs. Ford, who was found in a state of collapse in a Washington street drug store, would say only that she "wanted to pass into oblivion." Her roommate at the Dudley street house said she was separated from her husband, and had had trouble with her family.

Mrs. Ford told Patrolman Charles Flanders that she had taken eighty grains of veronal. Physicians at the hospital scoffed at this, saying that amount would have killed her. They were inclined to think a combination of drugs and alcohol responsible for her condition.

QUARRELS WITH MAN.

Miss Theriault lived in a house conducted by Mrs. Clara Dermington. The latter said that the girl came from Maine recently, leaving her parents so that she could be near her sweetheart, who lives on the same street. Mrs. Dermington's rooming house is on. The two quarreled, Mrs. Dermington said, the man walked away, and the girl went upstairs despondent.

A moment later the landlady went up. Miss Theriault had swallowed veronal, and was lying on the floor.

The fourth girl, Miss Grace Tajanian, twenty-eight years old, threw herself in front of a trolley car opposite the Columbia Theatre, South End. The motorman instantly applied the brakes and choked off the speed of his car to such an extent that the front fender struck her only a slight blow.

SWALLOWS POISON.

Miss Golden, who is said to be a nurse, lived with another nurse, Miss Helen Powers. She apparently learned of her sweetheart's defection during her roommate's absence, went to the bathroom, took out a package of bichloride of mercury tablets, and swallowed several.

WOMAN WHO SHOT HUSBAND IS ILL

Hemorrhages that may confine her in a hospital, prevented Mrs. Catherine Mealy from appearing in Brookline court today to answer the charge of shooting her husband, Frank Mealy, former Boston police officer. The exact nature of Mrs. Mealy's ailment was not stated, but it was said she may have to be removed to a hospital for a time. Mealy is slowly recovering at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

REVERE DIVORCEE ASKS ALIMONY DUE

MRS. KATHERINE C. HALL

PIG FANCIER FAILS TO PAY ALIMONY

"Pigs is pigs," but pigs are not money, so he couldn't pay his alimony.

At least that is what Alfred S. Hall, Jr., twenty-six son of ex-Mayor Hall of Revere, told Judge Fosdick in the Suffolk County Court divorce session.

Mrs. Katherine C. Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Corbett of No. 4 Sangamore street, Revere, testified that her former husband for six weeks had not paid her the $10 a month alimony agreed on at the time of their divorce, June 16, 1921.

Mrs. Hall, who is pretty, blond, and only twenty-two, told the court that she and her two children, Betty, four, and Alfred, 3d, three, are living with her parents and supported by them now.

"He never comes to see the children," she said.

She testified that young Hall is living in an apartment in Lynn with a woman, Mary, known in Lynn as Mrs. Hall.

Judge Fosdick advised that this be called to the attention of the District Attorney.

Young Hall, who admitted that he owned a piggery in which were about 200 pigs; a sport car, a small sedan, twelve horses and wagons, said he couldn't pay his alimony because he didn't have it.

FOUR HOMES ON FIRE IN EAST BOSTON

Four houses were on fire in a row along Falcon street, East Boston, today. Women of six families occupying the houses ran into the street, terrified lest their homes be consumed. Occupants of other houses nearby were alarmed lest wind blown sparks set fire to their roofs. A gale was agitated until firemen, after a brisk fight, extinguished the flames.

Sparks from a chimney [illegible] blown upon and set fire to the roof of No. 165. Sparks from that fire were carried over by the northwest wind to the roof of No. 170. In the same way the roofs of Nos. 172 and 174 were fired.

The houses are occupied by the families of William H. McLeod, Oliver Perry, William Hudson, Mrs. Margaret Gallagher, Henry Walker and Joseph Lowe.

The men folks were at work, the children at school.

One alarm was sounded, bringing three engines, ladder truck and two chemicals. Holes were burned through the four roofs, but the total damages, as estimated, was kept down to $2,500.

REVEALS ROMANCE OF SHOP

For Years Jeweler and Helen Fuerth Planned Honeymoon That Death Blocked

Providence, R. I., Oct. 20.—"Money is mockery. He is not here to enjoy it with me."

This is the heart-cry of Helen Fuerth, the little heiress to $250,000.

The love story behind the bequest of Adolph Lederer, wealthy Providence jewelry manufacturer, to his faithful employe, has just come out. The tragedy of a too-long deferred romance was the story told to a Boston American reporter by Miss Fuerth today.

"His business was his life. We worked together from morning till night for more than twenty years with no thought but the building up of his splendid business. Now as is not here to appreciate it, and the money is meaningless to me," said the quiet little heiress, seated at her great roll-top desk in the office lately occupied by herself and her sweetheart employer.

"We had no time to play. We worked always and what joy and beauty we knew we found in our work. Some day we intended to take a wonderful vacation together and drink our fill of leisure and romance and luxury. It is too late now."

ENGAGED IN 1916.

"I have given all my life to Mr. Lederer, ever since I came from Bohemia when I was a very young girl. He was the first man I knew here and he was my ideal from the day I first saw him. I worked in his jewelry factory and he helped me.

"I began by running a stupid machine, but finally he put me to work in his own office on more intelligent work. We understood each other perfectly. Our minds always walked in step," explained the heiress in her quiet little voice.

"We drew together more and more as the years went on. I was almost his partner. I looked after his clothes, bought his neckties and hats, made him wear his rubbers when it rained, scolded him when he overworked, and congratulated him upon his daily successes. Our lives were bound together inseparably.

"We became engaged in 1916, but decided not to marry until we had more money. We waited too long. He wanted a home and all the simple family things that very good men love, and some day we meant to have them. We should have taken our happiness when life offered it to us. Now the money for which we sacrificed it will mock me forever."

STILL CARRIES LUNCH.

The heiress has not changed her mode of living at all since coming into her fortune. She lives with her mother in a simple little cottage at No. 276 California avenue. She hurries to the office every morning, carrying a simple little homemade lunch under her arm. Her clothes are plain and shabbily neat. She seems totally unaware that she is a wealthy woman, and when questioned about her financial plans for the future, she smiles wistfully and says:

"It doesn't mean much to me. I don't know what I'll do with it. I suppose I'll just keep running the business as we did together and try to adjust myself to life without him.

"Money! Only people who haven't it, want it," she cried vehemently. "It can buy many things, but it never bought a moment's real happiness. I would rather never have a cent again, and have my dear friend with me than to own all the money in the world."

FITZGERALD DENOUNCES GOV. COX AS TOOL OF CORPORATIONS

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald delivered a scathing attack on Governor Channing Cox in addresses delivered at Attleboro, North Attleboro and Taunton.

Mr. Fitzgerald declared that Governor Cox was more closely connected with the reactionary, privileged corporation interests than any man who held the office of Governor in the present generation.

"When he was Speaker of the House of Representatives his appointments to leg islative committees were so notor ous that they drew strong public condemnation from such public spirited men as Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court," declared the Democratic candidate for Governor.

BROTHER IS LOBBYIST.

"As everyone knows, Justice Brandeis was the father of the Savings Bank Life Insurance system whose low rates have saved milli ons of dollars to the people and have taken millions of business away from the private insurance interests.

"When Justice Brandeis appeared before the leg islative committee on Insurance to support a bill in favor of Savings Bank Life Insurance he was amased to f nd that a majority of the members of the committee were insurance agents, either employed by or associated in business with the big insurance corporations.

"And it is a commonly-known fact, a matter of public record, that the Governor s brother has been for years the leg al counsel of the insurance interests.

LINKED WITH CAPITAL.

"The pictures of the last primary campaign, printed in the press o the State the morning following the election, showed that the man mos prominent in the small group se lected by the Governor to receive the returns with him was William M. Butler, his brother's law associate and the head of some of the most influential textile interests in this State.

"It is men of the type of Butler who have controlled the Republican Party for years It was undoubtedly Butler, or some of his business associates who were responsible for the failure of Governor Cox's administration to put an end to the Lawrence textile strike.

"The textile workers were ordered to accept a cut in their wages of 42 per cent. They declined to accept such a slashing reduction and left their work.

COX IGNORED STRIKE.

"Their responsible officials appeared at the State House and announced they were willing to arbitrate and would accept the findings of any arbitration board. They urged the State to investigate the cause of the strike and to place the blame wherever it might fall.

"That strike went along for months. Thousands of operatives were out of work. They were forced to live on charity. The business of a great city was demoralized. The storekeeper was forced to bear his share of the loss. But the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration never made an investigation of that strike to fix the blame for its continuance, despite the fact that the State law specifically provides that such an investigation must be made when both parties to an industrial dispute fail to arbitrate.

"A word from Governor Cox would have started the investigation. The investigation would have ended the strike But I was never made because no board, no matter how unbiased it might be, could dare find against the struggling men and women who had been ordered to accept a pay cut totaling 42 per cent. within a year while the cost of the necessities of life was increasing.

"Governor Cox failed to order that investigation because all his political life he has been tied up with the reactionary political and legal interests which have controlled this State. He obeyed the masters' lash It is no wonder he dares not meet me in public to discuss these issues from the same platform.

"I would love him to tell why he, when a member of the Legislature, voted against the investigation of telephone rates and service. I would love him to tell why he fought by the side of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company against the bill to reduce the price of gas in Boston."

Charles G. Morris of New Haven, Ct., was elected president.

FITZ TO COVER STATE ON 5,000 MILE TOUR

The busiest campaign ever undertaken by a candidate for high office in this State will be started next Monday by John F. Fitzgerald, the Democratic nominee for Governor.

Unaided and alone, almost, Fitzgerald will start a campaign tour that will cover every city, town and hamlet in the Commonwealth in the next two weeks

He will make over three hundred speeches. He will make one continuous ride of nearly 5,000 miles. He will campaign at least twenty hours every day.

He will take along his own music an auto load of handsmen. State and local candidates will be invited to address his audiences.

But he will depend in the main on his own strength, his own personality, and his own reputation for courageous campaigning to swing the tide of success

TO VISIT EVERY HAMLET.

Nothing like it has ever been attempted here Charles Sumner Bird our, when he was a real Progressive, will be like a pleasant wood romp compared to it

There are a few more than 350 cities and towns in the State. Fitzgerald will take his story to all of them, from the Cape towns to the Berkshire hamlets. Every village post office and every corner grocery audience will hear him raise the issues why the Old Guard Republican forces should be thrown to defeat in this election.

The rally schedule is now being arranged by a corps of workers under former Congressman Michael F Phelan, former Surveyor of the Port Joseph A. Maynard and former Representative Michael Brophy, at the Democratic campaign headquarters in the American House.

Fitzgerald is one of the most courageous campaigners ever known in his State. In his hard and clean battle against Senator Lodge six years ago, it was not uncommon for him to make twenty-five rallies in a day.

FINDS G. O. P. AT ODDS.

Fitzgerald is approaching sixty. He is in magnificent physical condition.

The men in public life whose judgment amounts to something admit that Fitzgerald is one of the best judges of political conditions in the State. He is a rare judge of his own campaigns, which a few men are. He is never overconfident, and always fighting.

Fitzgerald believes this campaign can be won. He came back from his Western tour encouraged and gratified. There he found confusion even in the Republican ranks.

"I came into personal contact with the farmer, the storekeeper, the worker, and while I realized the great feeling against the Republican party for its misadministration, I was utterly amazed by the open and frank denunciations of it

FARMERS ARE AROUSED.

"The farmer has no market for his crops. The onion market is poor The apple market is not good. The vegetable market is off. The farmer realizes that he is not going to benefit from the alleged 'protection' in the tariff but that he is going to pay a tax of from ten to twenty five per cent. on his clothes, on the implements that he buys and on all his farm machinery

"The women are thoroughly aroused I feel almost like saying they are furious They are receiving letters telling them to buy now to buy this to buy that to buy the other that put all kinds of taxes before they expected. he high cost of the new tariff."

Fitzgerald is campaigning as a progressive Democrat. He will not appoint even a reactionary Democrat to office if he is elected Governor, he says.

BOSTON PUBLISHER CHARGES WIFE IS BIGAMIST

PEABODY SAYS SPOUSE EMULATED VALENTINO

New York, Oct. 20.—Wealth doesn't always bring happiness. That is about the only point of agreement between Nelson J. Peabody, publisher with offices in New York, Boston and Chicago, and his wife, Lola, who is now living at the Hotel Vanderbilt.

Mr. Peabody has instituted suit for annulment of his marriage, on the ground that, like Rudolph Valentino movie star, his wife was married to him before her California divorce became final. Supreme Court Justice Wagner has granted Mrs. Peabody $100 a week alimony and $750 counsel fees pending settlement of the case.

This is Mrs. Peabody's side of the story, continued in an affidavit.

CHARGES INFIDELITY.

"When he was a poor man, I struggled with him; I washed, cooked and scrubbed in order to assist him. When he became wealthy I shared in his prosperity. Now that he is in receipt of a fabulous income he institutes an action to annul our marriage, claiming that it is void by reason of a technicality. Then he seeks to starve me into submission."

Mr. Peabody denies that he ever sought to avoid his duties as husband and charges that, while he was absent from home, suites occupied by him and his wife and various hotels served as "a place of rendezvous" for various men whom he suit to annul would be his proper consorse.

He bases his action on the contention that when the defendant became his wife on October 6, 1918 she was still the wife of James Hazard formerly of Chicago because a decree of divorce, granted in California that September, was still "in the interlocutory stage."

LIKE VALENTINO CASE.

Mr. Peabody says that he at first contemplated a divorce suit, but upon reading newspaper accounts of the Valentino case, decided that a

Society Leaders Plan Chicken Feast at Exposition, Says Betty Alden

MRS. LARZ ANDERSON AND MRS. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS

Mrs. Larz Anderson (at left) and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards were snapped a few days ago on the Anderson estate in Brookline as they were talking about "The Hut." (Photo copyright by A. H. Blackinton.)

By BETTY ALDEN.

CHICKEN, hot waffles and Yorkshire pudding!

Those are only a few of the delicacies with which Mrs. Larz Anderson and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards plan to tempt the palates of those who attend the Atlantic City Boardwalk Exposition coming to Boston the first week in December. For the interesting mistress of "Weld" and Mrs. Edwards are in charge of "The Hut," where luscious meals will be served during the boardwalk's stay in Boston.

At present Mrs. Anderson, who only recently returned from a trip abroad, is spending a week with her mother at "The Box" in Centocook, N. H. By the way, the accompanying picture is a most unusual one, for it is well nigh impossible to procure a picture of Mrs. Anderson, whose dislike of having her picture taken is far from being a secret. However, for once she has broken the rule, and the camera caught her in a very jolly mood talking over things with Mrs. Edwards about the boardwalk.

At the latter there is to be a booth showing the work of disabled service men, whose shop at No. 443 Boylston street Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Edwards are sponsoring. According to the latter, no less than 3,000 articles have been sold since the shop was opened three months ago.

MRS. THOMAS H. HOWARD and her son, Thomas Howard, whose Summer place is at Indian Crossing, have been spending a few days in New York at the St. Regis.

WHAT with the orange, purple, cerise, blue, green and pink shirts and sashes of the riders, the steeplechases being held tomorrow morning at Topsfield promise to be exceedingly colorful as well as exciting.

The event, taking place at "Willowdale," the Bradley Palmer estate, is a Myopia Hunt Club affair, which means that the smartest of the sport-loving class along the North Shore will be "among those present."

The first race for the Willow Dale cup comes at 10:30, and is open only to bona-fide hunters regularly hunted during the season of 1922. The second, coming at 11 o'clock, and for the Myopia Challenge Cup, is an open steeplechase about three and a half miles over a flagged course. The third race, at 11:30, also for the Myopia Challenge Cup (heavyweight division) is restricted to bona fide hunters. The last race comes at noon for the Battle Axe Cup, and is a steeplechase for bona-fide half bred hunters.

Among those who will ride their mounts are such well-known horsemen as Albert C. Burrage, Jr., Gordon C. Prince, Freddie Ayer, J. A. Amory, Alvin P. Bartwell, Adnah N. Nesbart and Hayard Tuckerman, Jr. The committee in charge of the races includes James W. Appleton, M. F. H., Fred J. Alley, Fred Ayer, Thomas G. Frothingham, Gordon Prince, Nell Rice, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., and Bradley Palmer. The judges are John S. Lawrence and Thomas W. Pierce.

MR. AND MRS. GURNEE MUNN, well known in Boston, are returning to New York next week. They have been in Scotland for the shooting.

I HEAR that Miss Elizabeth Burgess, daughter of Mrs. Theodore P. Burgess of Dedham, is going to spend another winter abroad studying. The number of young Americans going over for European study seems to be increasing each year.

I EXPECT that Mrs. Barrett Wendell's table at the army and navy bazaar next Wednesday will be one of the most interesting. For Mrs. Wendell, who has the honor of being president of the Colonial Dames, has enlisted the aid of numerous friends, who are members of the Massachusetts Colonial Dames, to help stock her table with genuine antiques.

Throughout the day groups of society girls will be on hand to make candy, which will be sold at Mrs. George W. Wheelwright, Jr.'s, table.

I NOTE that Miss Amy Cabot's figure study is one of the fine works now being shown at the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors' annual exhibition which opened two days ago in New York at the Fine Arts Building. Miss Cabot's Boston home is at No. 72 Chestnut street.

There is no end of praise from all sides for the excellence of the exhibition, which is said to challenge comparison with those of the regular Academy. Among the prize winning works of art are "At the Italian Booth" by Constance Curtis, who was awarded the National Arts Club prize, and a portrait of Charlotte Hundley, done by Camelia Whitehurst, who won the National Association prize.

MYSTERY MOTHER HAD MANIA FOR BABIES

BORROWED TOTS WHEN A CHILD

Doctor Says Mrs. McNally, Accused of Slaying Her Twins, Is Incapable of Bearing Children

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 20.—Significant revelations that are bound to have a tremendous bearing on the trial of Hazel McNally, mother of Hammond's "mystery twins," were unearthed today.

Mrs. McNally is on trial charged by her husband with murdering the twins but she maintains she never gave birth to twins but used a pair of dolls to fool her nearsighted husband.

The most striking disclosures discovered today are:

1—At the age of 16 years Mrs. McNally who was then Hazel Mills borrowed children's babies in the vicinity of her parents' home at which she lived at 2809 Calumet avenue, and claimed the borrowed babies as her own.

2—Five different witnesses are willing to testify at this time that she was frequently seen in the neighborhood of the building where the baby was which she gave to the "borrowed babies."

3—In one instance when a baby was not to be had she stole up a vacant lot, and dressed doll babies can be made much longer and whirled around the head.

4—The one recorded instance of her ward of the Halloween Home" for the purpose of stealing children under the age of two years and the circumstances surrounding her arrest, and subsequent release by the court.

5—A short time later she adopted one of the children from the Halloween Home. Tom, child a baby boy, Raymond who up to this time has been known as the child of her first marriage.

6—Has assumed to simulate approaching motherhood in much the same manner she claims completely fooled the witnesses who testified as to her appearance at the trial.

It is also known that Floyd O. Jellison of Tarrant-Joulin "baby" case fame, who is assisting in the prosecution of Mrs. McNally on the charge of murder, has in his possession a certificate signed by Dr. W. W. Keen of Green Bay, Wis., which specifically states that he (Dr. Kelly) performed an operation on Mrs. McNally which makes her incapable of bearing children.

These are only a few of the startling disclosures which are so strikingly similar in their plot that they present a perfect parallel to the remarkable stories testified to by the witnesses in the preliminary hearing now going on before Judge Henry C. Cleveland, were told by Mrs. Marie Holzer and Jacob Lill, former neighbors of the girl ten years ago.

FREES VISITOR WHO SAYS WIFE LOCKED HIM IN

That Mrs. Evelyn Harlow of No 17 Rockford street, Roxbury, bolted the door and refused to allow him to leave after he had called to visit her husband, was the defense presented today by Solicitor Leonard of No 31 Stanley street, Dorchester.

Leonard was charged with assault and battery on Mrs Harlow. She said he went to the house to see her husband. The latter not being home Leonard asked permission to wait for him. Then according to Mrs Harlow he said things about her husband that she resented.

She ordered him from the house and he said he would leave "if you will give me a kiss." She said he threw her to the floor and struck her several times.

Leonard's defense "I went to the house to see Mr Harlow. When I started to leave, Mrs Harlow bolted the door and refused to allow me to leave. I laughed. I feared some kind of a trap and tried to get away. I did push her down, but I did not strike her."

Mrs. Harlow said that the man threatened that, "If I don't kiss you, you won't live to kiss anyone else." Judge Ahern found Leonard not guilty.

CALLS FITCHBURG IN 'GRIP OF EVIL ONE'

Fitchburg, Oct. 19.—The Rev. George M. Bailey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in a sermon which made barely veiled allusions to the city government of Fitchburg as being "in the grip of the evil one," and said that heroic measures were necessary to save the city from ruin.

Rev. G. M. Bailey

He urged his parishioners to register and vote for a mayor who is not addicted to making hypocritical pre-election promises and who is not in the grip of the lawless criminal classes. "If Fitchburg hasn't got a mayor who lives up to these qualifications," he said, "it is up to us to get one that does."

PLOT, MOTHER OF MYSTERY BABY SAYS

New York, Oct. 20.—"I believe the whole case is a plot to get my child away from me."

Mrs Byrd Shoemaker made this statement following reports from St Louis that her divorced husband, Henry Laumeier, had petitioned the court to decide the baby's legitimacy.

Laumeier's petition states that at the time of the divorce hearing in June, 1919 Mrs Laumeier testified her relations as husband and wife ceased on the day following their marriage. According to Mr Laumeier a petition the child was born two months later.

"As all my friends know, not realizing that a child was going to be born to me I took back my maiden name when I got my divorce," Mrs Shoemaker said. "My child's father is certainly Mr. Laumeier, and the baby's legitimacy was never questioned until I asked his wealthy father to pay for his support and education.

It is untrue that I married Mr Laumeier and spent only one night with him. We were married and lived together for more than a year almost up to the time of our divorce. The child was born December 3, 1918, and we were married January 8, 1918.

"The baby is nearly three years old and I have spent $3,000 on him. When I learned last September that Mr. Laumeier was returning from Europe I notified my attorney and he told me I could sue for the money I had spent on the child."

The other side of Main Street

Main Street may be many of the things that have been said about it — but it has another side, a fine romantic side. And that aspect Florence Bingham Livingston presents in her many-thrilled novel, "Under a Thousand Eyes". In November Good Housekeeping.

How to redecorate your home

A practical, money-saving department. This month, "Harmony in Furniture", with full directions for the rearrangement and selection of furniture to secure a maximum of economy. Also, "How to Make Parchment Shades". And an authoritative and easily understood article on electric wiring.

Should colleges be abolished?

Colleges, claims Stanwood Cobb, are tyrannical, and in commanding secondary schools to hand over to them non-thinking, fact-crammed pupils, they receive material with which they can do little. What is the remedy? A tremendously provocative article for every parent and everyone interested in the general problem of education. In November Good Housekeeping.

Women in politics

"Mr. an' Mrs. Lafe Bud are soon t' part after quarrelin' all fall o'er th' pearl button schedule in th' Fordney tariff bill". So declares the Rev. Wiley Tanger in a delightfully humorous sketch by Abe Martin, "Women an' politics". Beneath his wit is a vein of serious observation which should make women "sit up and take notice". Also the famous "Letters from a Senator's Wife", by Frances Parkinson Keyes.

Why divorce to marry again?

Isn't one marriage just like another?

The world is full of men and women discovering that they are wed to persons to whom they are unsuited. And so, they decide that for their own fuller and truer living they must break up two established homes to form a third home. And then, what happens when this third home is established? Is it any different from the others? Does the married relationship change? Do its tyrannies, its need for sacrifice, disappear? These questions demand the gravest consideration. And they are answered by in the most provocative story she has ever written, "The Exquisite Arbitress". It appears complete in Business or Love? —Which?

Is it possible to have both love and a career? Nell Chase found that love interfered with work. And she had to work. How she found her solution in a crisis-cross of duty, emotion, and misunderstanding is told in a delightful story by Dorothy S. Phillips in November Good Housekeeping.

WASH KIDNEYS IF THEY HURT

Take Jad Salts to flush the Kidneys if your Back pains you.

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food max form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have backache enough. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine and you will feel like a new person. Jad Salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Ask your druggist for a quarter pound of Jad Salts and start enjoying life tomorrow. You will feel like a new person.

FRANTIC MOTHER OF MISSING GIRL APPEALS TO GOVERNOR COX

DECLARES POLICE HUNT FOR DAUGHTER IS FARCE

Declaring that two fourteen-year-old Belmont High School girls, missing from their homes since Tuesday afternoon, have been lured away by the woman head of a White Slave gang, Mrs. Ella Metcalf, mother of one of the girls, has appealed to Governor Cox in an effort to get police action.

The police have thus far, according to the frantic mother, done no more than pretend to make a search. She told a Boston American reporter that she will ask the Governor to request Police Commissioner Wilson to act.

Gertrude Metcalf

Mrs. Metcalf, who lives at No. 675 Mt. Auburn street, East Watertown, said that she will also ask Colonel Foote, Commissioner of Public Safety, to assign a State police officer to the case.

SEE "MOVIE" LURE.

The girls who disappeared mysteriously are Gertrude Metcalf, her daughter, and Ruth Meek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Meek of No 41 Unity avenue, Belmont.

In this mystery a well-dressed woman, who drove about in an expensive limousine, is the central figure.

Mrs. Metcalf says she is positive that this woman is the head of a White Slave gang, and that Gertrude and Ruth, led to believe they were to become moving picture actresses, have actually been taken away to some rendezvous of this gang.

Gertrude, a few years ago, was voted the most perfect girl in the Belmont schools, and her pictures were entered in a national contest.

How I Provide Against Coughs and Colds

BY A MOTHER

"Last winter I resolved to provide in advance for the season's colds and coughs—and I did it. I spent less money and I had no doctor bills. I suffered no dread, no anxiety; I had no sleepless, worried vigils—watching my children through the contagious periods of a bad cold. I want other mothers to know how I did it—my gratitude will then be theirs.

"I bought of my druggist a bottle of Essence Mentho-Laxene and mixed it into a pint with home-made sugar syrup. It's no trouble—three minutes, a little sugar and hot water, that's all. Just follow plain directions. A very first dose brings relief and I have not had a serious cold or cough in my family since I adopted this pure good medicine. It contains no chloroform, or narcotics whatever. It's delicious and children can't fight it. I give it to my baby, my two older children and both my husband and self have found it supremely good in every way. It destroys the cold, stops the cough, corrects catarrhal trouble and prevents the dangerous after effects of a cold, because it is antiseptic, mildly laxative and tonic to the system.

"The manufacturers guarantee every bottle satisfactory or money back."

Essence Mentho-Laxene sold by leading druggists, price 75c, or direct by mail. "Best ever sold for cough and cold."

The New Way to Remove Corns. Japanese Method---Don't Hurt a Bit

Just a Touch of Ice Mint Stops Soreness, Then the Corn or Callus Shrivels and Lifts Off. Try It Your Feet Will Feel Cool and Fine

Thanks to a new discovery made from a Japanese Product your foot troubles can be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint as this new preparation is called is said to shrivel a hard corn, soft corn or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful.

Think of it! just a little touch of that delightful, cooling soothing Ice-Mint and real foot comfort is yours. No matter how old or tough your pet corn is he will shrivel right up and you can pick him out after a few nights' use of Ice-Mint. No pain, not a bit of soreness either before applying it or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real Japanese secret for fine healthy little feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and men who have to stand on their feet all day.

No more tired, aching or burning feet. No more foot trouble. Ice-Mint will make your feet feel cool and fine that you will just sigh with relief. It is now selling like "Wild fire" here. Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-Mint and give your poor, suffering, tired feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better, nor nothing just as good.

Woman Hit Officer Over Head With Live Chicken

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 20.—Beating a police officer over the head with a live chicken was found by Mrs. Margaret Margoni to be unprofitable when she was found guilty of assault in court here on Detective Lieutenant Patrick J. Fenton and fined $20.

Mrs. Pauline Constabilini was found guilty of assisting in the beating of the officer, but the court dealt with her more leniently.

Lieutenant Fenton testified that he was being mussed up quite badly and that the two women were intent upon giving him a severe beating when Patrolman Michael J. Curley came to the rescue of his superior.

Judge Wallace R. Heady did not approve of the nature of the weapon used by the Margoni woman.

GREATEST BARITONE HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Tita Ruffo, the world's greatest baritone, and the successor of Caruso at the Metropolitan Opera, so far as the Italian patrons are concerned, will give his first concert of the season in Boston next Sunday afternoon under the auspices of Albert Selnert, at Symphony Hall.

Tita Ruffo.

Ruffo will have with him the extraordinary young soprano Vonna D'Arle, who was singing in a cabaret at the Palais Royale when she was heard by the teacher of Rosa Ponselle, taken in hand and in a year paired in the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Ruffo will sing the air from Don Carlos and several other big baritone numbers.

MADE MOVIES OF EXILED EX-KAISER

New York, Oct 20.—It would the only man who has ever made movies of the Ex-Kaiser at his exile home in Doorn, Holland. He is the Baron Clemens von Radowitz Nei. The Baron acted on the B & B Trust Co. Garfield case with a lot of other dignitaries.

The Baron is quite a man for the unusual. He has a cigarette case made of wood from the trunk of a tree that used to grow in the garden of the royal palace at Petrograd, Russia. He is prouder of that than of the unusual feat of making movies of the exiled Ex-Kaiser.

B. & M. TICKETS TO BE GOOD 30 DAYS

RACE FUND FOR MAYFLOWER NOW $1,150

With the schooner Mayflower ready for its trip to Gloucester, Boston and New England sport lovers came through with flying colors and the fund for the Invitation Fisherman's races reached $1,150.

A total of $3 000 is needed to furnish prizes and expenses, to be used to promote a special race between the winner of the International Fishermen's race and the Mayflower.

THE SUBSCRIPTIONS:

The subscriptions:
Boston American, $200
Two people acknowledged, $425.
Boston Traveler, $100
Whiteman, Ward & Lee, $50.
Henry Clese Company, $50
Boston Fish Company, $50.
New England Fish Company, $50
H. A. Rich Company, $50
F. A. Rich Company, $50.
Bay State Fisheries $50.
Sears & Symonds, $50.
Ocean Fish Company, $50.
"Yachting," $50.

The Mayflower was scheduled for a trip to Gloucester for a trial spin with the schooner Elizabeth Howard in a "trial heat."

This will show Captain J. Henry Jackson how to set the sails. W. Starling Burgess, designer of the Mayflower, which has been barred from entering the International Fisherman's race, will go with the boat.

Captain William Corkum and C. H. W. Foster will accompany Larkin and assist in "trimming the sheets of the Mayflower."

Race enthusiasts are heralding the Invitation Race as a better attraction than the International Race. If the Bluenose wins the race, the Invitation Race will be between that boat and the Mayflower and if it is defeated the Henry Ford will compete with the Mayflower for honors.

The sum of $200 will be used for prizes. The rest of the fund will defray the expenses of the entrants.

All contributions to the Invitation Race fund should be sent to A. L. Winsor, treasurer, No. 14 Boston Fish Pier, Boston, Mass.

"Try Sylpho-Nathol and see"

"You simply can't appreciate Sylpho-Nathol until you've used it. Edith Dennison told me how good it was. I couldn't believe her until I had tried it in our bathroom. You know that unpleasant, barely perceptible odor that a bathroom will get, no matter how clean you keep it. Well, Sylpho-Nathol chased that odor away from ours almost overnight. It is a necessary safeguard that particular housekeepers simply should not be without.

"I've put Sylpho-Nathol to the hardest kind of tests. It has never failed me. Most women dislike disinfectants and deodorants because so many have a horrid smell, or have to be mixed so carefully. Sylpho-Nathol hasn't either of these faults.

"Its faint, friendly odor doesn't linger. Though 4½ times stronger than carbolic acid, it's as safe to have in the house as a cake of scouring soap. It cannot hurt your skin, nor injure household things. And just a teaspoonful in a quart of warm water makes a clean-smelling, pearly-gray solution that's ready for immediate use."

Sylpho-Nathol has many important household uses. It makes a mop-water that destroys germs which get into cracks and crannies. It is a positive deodorant for sinks and drains and other hard-to-get-at places. It keeps garbage cans sweet and clean and drives away the flies. It is an effective sprinkle for cellars and attics. In fact, it should be used wherever there is a chance for odors to start or germs to breed.

Sylpho-Nathol is also a splendid antiseptic that should be in the medicine chest as a healing and effective safeguard against infection from cuts, burns, bruises and other home accidents.

Sylpho-Nathol comes in four handy sizes, 15¢, 35¢, 65¢, $1.25. Most good grocers and druggists have it. If yours hasn't, he can get it easily. Just ask for it by the name—"Sylpho-Nathol."

FILES BOND TO GET HOWARD INTO RACE

Seizure of the schooner Elizabeth Howard, which is to compete in a trial race tomorrow off Salem with the schooner Mayflower, has been forestalled by the filing of a bond by the owned, William Howard, in cover $4 657 sought in a suit by the Standard Export & Finance Corporation. The pla ntiff, in the Federal court here, asks that the Elizabeth Howard be condemned and sold to satisfy the corporation's claims. The plaintiff says the Howard failed to pay off salvage claims of the Snow Marine Co., for which money had been forwarded.

Thirty of the thirty-two teams entered in the State Cup Competition will play the first round tomorrow and furnish plenty of excitement for soccer fans throughout the State. The South Boston Celts, Saxony Mills game has been postponed until November 4, owing to the inability of the home team to procure grounds.

Jimmie Lambie

Buick Field Allston, will be the scene of another torrid battle between Clan Sutherland and General Electric Utes. These two outfits met last week in the National Cup and although the Clansmen had the best of the play they could not get a goal and were defeated 2 goals to 0. This week however, Manager Sydney Chance has put back 4 forward lines and is confident of turning the tables on the Lynn organization.

Jimmy Milton will start the game in the forward line for the express purpose of gathering some goals in. Milton registered two goals in eight minutes against Fore River in a State Cup semi final, putting the Quincy eleven out of the competition, and the Brookline manager is hoping that he will repeat tomorrow. His place on the left wing line will be filled by Gregor Grant. Sandy Ritchie will also be seen among the forwards.

Quincy fans will be treated to a great exhibition when the Maple Leafs face Fore River on Fore River field and a very close game is expected because of the equal strength of both elevens. The shipbuilders will pin their hopes on the ability of Jimmy Lambie, their clever goalie, to keep his lines clear of the shots which the fast Leaf forwards will drive at him. Jimmy is a reliable veteran, however, being considered the best goalie in the State and his opponents must do some sharpshooting to beat him.

JIMMY GARDNER HEALTH DIRECTOR

Jimmy Gardner

The training camp at Diamond Hill, R. I., where scores of champions have prepared for championship fights in the distant past has been taken over by Jimmy Gardner, former ring gladiator who is now devoting his efforts to conducting a health resort and training camp.

Diamond Hill has long been the rendezvous of ring champions. Ring stars such as Matty Baldwin, Eddie Murphy, Eddie Shevlin, Benny Leonard, Jack Dempsey, Kid Chocolate, Joe Welcott, Sandy Ferguson, Bob Fitzsimmons and other lot tories of the ring always have prepared for their important bouts around Hill. Bill Brennan prepared for his last bout with Jack Dempsey there.

Now Jimmy Gardner has taken over the stand and will be assisted by Tommy Thomas, former Pacific Coast middleweight who met them all, until he went down to defeat in the twenty-third round at the hands of Stanley Ketchel.

KOTSONAROS IN VICTORY OVER HAVONPAA

George Kotsonaros grabbed his weekly mat victory at the Grand Opera House when he scored two consecutive falls over Sulo Havonpaa, a portly ancient representative of Finland, whose lack of good judgment cost him whatever chance he had of winning over the classy Grecian light heavyweight champion.

Havonpaa had size and weight but was in anything but fit shape to combat the victorious attacks of the muscular idol of the Greeks. At that, the big Finn might have gone along longer without being pinned, but for his anxiety to snarl at the boobers from the second balcony.

Kotsonaros wrestled in his usual brilliant manner and had his opponent on the defensive during the greater part of the first match. All his attempts to pin a fall were avoided until he caught his excitable opponent in the act of passing comments to the crowd, when a flying mare gave him fall number one, in 49 minutes 10 seconds.

When the grapplers appeared for the second bout it was seen that the youthful Greek would have little trouble in gaining the second fall over his veteran opponent who appeared past fifty years of age. Big Sulo fought savagely while able, but in 9 minutes was forced to admit defeat when Kotsonaros landed a perfect toe hold.

Ivan Michaloff vanquished Lawson Pinham in 41 minutes 15 seconds, and earned the right to a return match with Kotsonarus. The Russian Cossack brought the affair to a close with a crotch hold and body lift.

Joe Farrell toppled Frank Dutcher in 2 minutes 45 seconds.

Sam Smith handled all three bouts and Jack Conway added two more winners, jumping his percentage to .872.

WINDY CITY MAT STAR ON WARPATH

CLEVEREST COLORED BOY IN COUNTRY TO BATTLE VILLA

FIGHTING FILIPINO FACES TOUGH FOE

Negro boxers are once more assuming positions of prominence in the ring. After suffering for years as a result of the ulus of Jack Johnson, colored boxers have won their way back into the pugilistic limelight. They are being sought after by the promoters and are being paid fancy sums for their services.

Danny Edwards, Chick Suggs, George Robinson, Panama Joe Gans, Lee Anderson, Kid Norfolk, Battling Siki and Harry Wills are the most conspicuous among colored boxers who are rated with the leaders in their respective classes.

Boston and New England fans will receive an opportunity to see Edwards in action at the Boston Arena next Monday night. The negro bantamweight champion is billed to meet Pancho Villa, the world's flyweight champion, in a ten-round bout under the direction of the Arena A. C.

Edwards has fought some of his most sensational battles in this city. While showing at local clubs he has bested Frankie Ryan, Chick Suggs, Abe Friedman, Roy Moore and Midget Smith. Young Montreal scored a win over the Pacific Coast flash at the Arena. This is one of the few reverses that Edwards has suffered since coming East.

Edwards, more than any other colored boxer, has been responsible for the breaking down of the bars which have been set up against negro ring men in many States.

George Moore, manager of Edwards, led the fight against the ban on "mixed" bouts in New York. The result was that Danny engaged in the first "mixed" bout in New York under the present law, while the New York Boxing Commission sanctioned a tussle between Dempsey and Wills and also announced it would not have any objection to Siki meeting Gene Tunney or Harry Greb in New York.

In the days of Peter Jackson, Joe Gans, Joe Walcott, Sam Langford and Jack Blackburne there was not any feeling shown against colored ring men.

Then came the Jack Johnson peril. Riotous living by the former champion, and even more foolish statements caused intense feeling against the heavyweight champion of other days. The result was that a large number of quiet, unassuming, clean living boxers of the Harry Wills type suffered.

Father Time is a great healer. He has soothed the wounds caused by Johnson and there is now no feeling against negro boxers. Which is as it ought to be.

In Edwards, the colored race has a boxer who deposits considerable of the same kind of boxing class that won international fame for George Dixon.

Edwards was brought East by George Moore, a Pacific Coast hotel proprietor. Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey gave the writer the tip on Edwards long before he showed in Boston with the result that we were able to give the readers of this column the advance tip on the Pacific Coast youth.

Edwards will receive one of the most difficult tests of his career when he quarrels with Pancho Villa Monday night. By knocking out Johnny Buff in eleven rounds, Villa proved he is one of the heaviest hitting little men in the history of the ring. He will naturally strive to have Edwards.

There is apparently a brotherly feeling between Cubans and Filipinos as a result of their both breaking away from Spain at the same time. A large number of Cubans living in Boston have secured reservations for the Arena show. They don't hesitate in stating that they will be rooting for Villa to win.

Travers and Suggs Post Forfeits for Title Bout

Vic Richardson, manager of Mickey Travers, and David Lumiansky, pilot of Chick Suggs, have each posted a forfeit of $500 with Jack Conway, boxing editor of the Boston American, to bind a match between their proteges. Suggs is the New England featherweight champion and has been charged with avoiding a meeting with Travers.

Mickey Travers

"Let Travers make 125 pounds ringside and he can have a match with Suggs," said Lumiansky during a heated discussion in the Sporting Department of this newspaper.

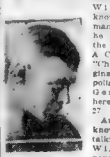
"Travers will make 125 pounds," shot back Richardson.

Details for the match were agreed upon and forfeits posted. The club offering the best inducements may have this pugilistic plum.

CHUCK WIGGINS IS RATED HIGHLY

"One of the greatest light-heavyweights in the country."

That was the verdict of Jackie Williams, well known Boston manager when he heard that the Commercial A. C. had tied up "Chuck" Wiggins of Indianapolis to meet Gene Tunney here on October 27.



Chuck Wiggins.

And Williams knows what he is talking about. Wiggins has never fought in Boston, but Williams during his travels around the country has seen all of 'em in action.

While Williams had Dan O'Dowd in New Orleans to fight Tom Gibbons he saw Wiggins defeat Martin Burke of New Orleans.

"And he had about everything needed by a great fighter," says Williams. "He is one of those boxing in type of fighters who never breaks away. He can hit hard and in all his career I don't think he was ever knocked down, in spite of the fact that he has met them all. Then Wiggins has a shift that dazzles all his opponents.

"If Boston sees him once they'll want to see him again. That's the kind of a fighter he is."

KETONEN WINS MAT MATCH FOR TITLE

Little Rock Ark., Oct. 20.—Waino Ketonen of Massachusetts defeated Charles Rentrop of Little Rock last night in a wrestling match in which it was claimed that the middleweight champion of the world was at stake. CHERRY PARK RACING ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 20.—The racing at Cherry Park, Avon, attracted the biggest crowd of the week. Riley Mac won the 2:12 pace postponed from Wednesday.

She escaped serious injury although King Fisher Martin, her driver, was pretty well shaken up.

SACRED HEART A.C. TO STAGE BOUTS

Entries are being received for the coming amateur boxing tourney of the Sacred Heart A. C. which will be held Thursday evening, October 26, Music Hall, East Boston.

Tommy Reagan.

"Hunchy" Wade of East Boston, last year's undefeated, 135-pound champion, has entered for the coming tourney. Jimmy Flynn, "Hunchy" Wade it difficult to make 135 and has decided to box in the 147-pound class. The entry of "Seventy" Powers champion of the O'Grady of the U. S. S. Florida, has been received.

O'Grady is the latest K. O. sensation in the 147-pound class. Neither of these boys have ever been defeated and when they meet a bout that will produce many a thrill will be seen in Reagan O'Grady will meet a boy who combines speed and clever ness with punch and gameness. Naturally East Boston fans will root for "Hunchy," while a large number from the U. S. S. Florida will be on hand to cheer for O'Grady.

The classes for the coming show are 113, 118, 125, 135, 147 pounds. Entries close with Tommy Reagan, No. 36 Neptune road, East Boston.

AUGIE RATNER IS MUCH ELATED

Augie Ratner

Meanwhile Johnny Wilson remains world's champion by virtue of his win over Mike O'Dowd regardless of all ring rulings.

HARVARD OUT TO PILE UP RECORD SCORE ON CENTRE

EYES OF GRID WORLD ON STADIUM SCRAP

Harvard rules a ten to eight favorite in the contest with Centre tomorrow. In spite of the fact that the Centre rooters are confident that their team will triumph over the Crimson, there is little money in sight to back up their belief. There is practically no Kentucky money on the game, the Colonels being unwilling to risk their coin on Centre's present eleven.

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

You can shake a stick at a whole lot of promising football games tomorrow, provided you have a stick to shake.

Locally it is the first of a series of "big days" in college football—not quite so "big" as next Saturday when, within a ten-cent fare of this fair city, Harvard will engage Dartmouth; Boston College will meet Lafayette and Tufts encounter Wesleyan—but decidedly "big" as compared with the football Saturdays that have gone before.

It is the third annual appearance here of the "Praying Colonels" from Centre College, Ky., that makes tomorrow "big" in local grid annals. Fifty-one thousand persons, the largest crowd yet to assemble this season, are due to sit in at the Stadium while Harvard is striving to gracefully remove Centre from future Crimson schedules, and Centre, with grim determination, is endeavoring to make the Crimson plan fall through.

That game tops all others in the point of general interest the country over, for if there is one small college in the U. S. A. that stands as a monument to the efficacy of football publicity that small college is Centre.

Centre College and its grid heroes have served as subject matter for almost endless columns of newspaper copy; pages of weekly or monthly magazine literature, and not a few cloth-bound volumes.

It won plenty of such acclaim prior to last year when the only reasons for it were the unusually large scores it rolled up on small and little known opponents, and the fact it defeated by a small margin a team that previously had beaten Princeton in its engagements with other worthwhile foes—Harvard and Georgia Tech—it had been soundly trounced.

Last Year Centre Put Over a Victory on Crimson

But last year its newspaper and magazine space was multiplied many times. For last year Centre caught Harvard off its guard and put over a 6 to 0 victory on the Crimson that a completely new Centre a year in the making that it has retained notwithstanding its later defeat by the Texas Aggies.

Whether Centre is to continue to be a gift thrive in sport story head lines or is to become a fond memory as was the case with the old Carlisle Indians, will be determined tomorrow.

As each note on Centre since last year's Stadium happening is more or less of a reflection on Harvard's football prowess Harvard is admittedly out to trounce the Colonels and as a reflection on Harvard will prevail unless that trouncing is a very, very sound one, the Crimson's name call for a victory by a several touchdown margin. Once that is accomplished Harvard can drop the Kentuckians from its schedule without hearing the cry of "'fraid cat" from every corner.

Look for Harvard to Win by Twenty Points.

We expect Harvard will do that very thing. We look for a Crimson victory by at least twenty points, and will not be surprised if the margin is considerably greater, for Harvard will have its complete list of first call men in action, and that first call eleven, basing our estimate on its showing against Holy Cross, is just about as strong an eleven as there is hereabout.

It will enjoy a decided weight advantage over Centre, will show a superiority in individuals, and, with Captain Buell, following to the letter the scheme of generalship outlined by the Crimson coaches, the Harvard team should display to a decided advantage in the tactical end of the thing.

But other promising conflicts of the day merit a note or two.

The other Greater Boston game, involving Tufts and Norwich, which generally is regarded as a sure triumph for the J mbos, looks more like an even thing to us, for, although Tufts has won all its games to date, it has yet to reveal an attack that it can sustain until it has squffled the enemy goal line.

Boston College Out for Revenge Against Detroit

Not the least important battle of the day involves another local team—Boston College, in its game with Detroit. The Eagles, defeated 7 to 0 by Detroit last year, are out for a deep and lasting revenge and appear to be a team capable of accomplishing that purpose. The change on the B. C. lineup which was predicted in this column immediately after the Fordham game, has taken place. Keyhane has succeeded Bill Doyle at left guard. He adds nearly fifty pounds to the total avoirdupois of the Newton vanguard and should take much work off the shoulders of Heaphy and Koslowski, centre and left tackle respectively. The fact that the giant tackle of the Detroit team, is not in the best condition physically, is expected to make B. C.'s task somewhat lighter than it originally expected.

Still another promising tussle in which a local eleven is a party, is the Boston University-Holy Cross game at Worcester. The Purple, having had a fairly easy time against Villanova last week, while B. U. was taking a licking from Vermont, is in excellent shape for the fray and should show sufficient power to send the Back Bay boys to their third straight defeat, although, let us assert, we have a hunch that B. U. on one of these fine days is going to put over a surprise when it is least expected to do so.

Then in Hanover the Dartmouth team, which comes to Cambridge next week, encounters Tom Keady's Vermont consolidation of Beck, Yarnell, Eastburn, Driscoll, et al., in what appears to be the toughest assignment yet given the Green this season. The latter, however, will have its complete first string assortment ready for action, and should win the fray.

CENTRE BADLY CRIPPLED FOR BIG GAME

Not so colorful as last year, tired after a long trip, but determined to fight its hardest, the Centre College football squad arrived in Boston at 8:30 last night. At the Hotel Lenox, headquarters for the team, half a hundred students and wellwishers of the Southern team gathered to welcome the players.

There was a little tinge of gloom in the enthusiastic reception when Tom Bartlett, star halfback of Centre, entered the hotel. Wrapped in a long fur-lined coat, his collar buttoned around his swollen throat, Bartlett came in attended by Mrs. C. E. Allen, wife of Dr. Allen, the faculty chaperon.

Bartlett had his tonsils removed last Monday, and twice was operated on because of abscesses which developed after the operation. Owing to his condition, there is little probability that he will play Saturday, although he gamely made the trip, hoping that he would be in condition.

With the exception of Bartlett the team is in fine physical trim and ready for the game. Centre rooters are confident that their team can repeat the performance of last Fall, and feel that Harvard will again meet defeat.

Coach Charley Moran did not commit himself to any opinion regarding the outcome of the game. Having lost eight men of last year's eleven, he was obliged to build up an entirely new team, and has not had the team that will play Harvard together until Wednesday, when the team stepped off at Cincinatti for practice.

A train wreck, just outside Danville, delayed the Centre team and disrupted Coach Moran's plans to hold practice at the Harvard Stadium yesterday. However, the team will have a long session this morning at the Stadium, and will practice from 9 o'clock until 1.

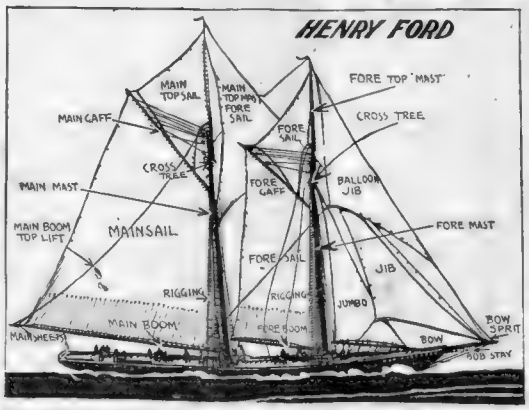
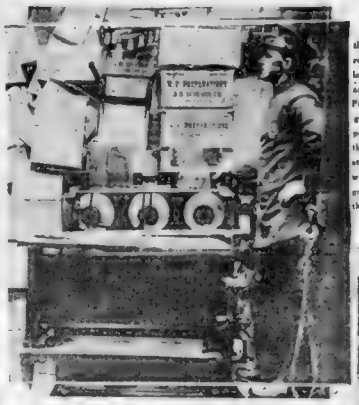
HUSKY CENTRE COLLEGE TEAM EAGER FOR HARVARD BATTLE

HERE ARE THE FIGHTING KENTUCKY YOUTHS who clash at the Stadium tomorrow with the Crimson. Photo taken at Cambridge today shows the lineup which will start the game which is the center of football interest on Saturday's card. Last year Centre beat Harvard 6-0 and wrote its name big in football history. The team will try to repeat, but Harvard is determined to send them back home disappointed.

SECRETARY OF NAVY VISITS THE CHARLESTOWN Navy Yard! Photo shows Rear-Admiral Henry A. Wiley, Secretary Edwin S. Denby and Mrs. Denby. The marine band was turned out and a salute of nineteen guns was fired in honor of the secretary. He says the Charlestown Navy Yard is in no danger of being closed.



WHAT AND WHERE IS a Balloon Jib! Tomorrow every "land yachtsman" along the North Atlantic will be discussing the stirring race between the Bluenose and the Henry Ford, but if the truth were known not many of them could give the nautical terms of the schooners' rigging and sails. Look the above sketch over carefully—it indicates every prominent part of race tomorrow and "be in the know."



JOHN ODDO, 65, ARRESTED FOLLOWING RAID on Tremont Street Moonshine Plant! Five hours after police descended on the three story house at No. 376 Tremont street, Oddo, who lives at No 8 Worcester place, was taken in custody on the charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale. Photo shows part of seizure.

WATCH THE WORK OF these Centre College stars tomorrow! Left to right, they are: Gordy, left end; the famous Red Roberts, end Sweeney, halfbacks. Charles E. Parker says these burly chaps are going to be defeated by about 20 points margin. And Parker gets things about just right. Centre is at a disadvantage when it comes to weight and individual ability. The game is the most interesting on the card for tomorrow.

ANOTHER Child Added to Growing List of Auto Fatalities! The latest victim is six-year-old Mary Grace Ridge, run over by a five-ton coal truck in front of her home in South Boston. The child was rushed to the Carney Hospital.

SCHOONER MAYFLOWER READY TO MEET WINNER OF FISHERMEN'S Race! Photo shows the Mayflower, barred from representing the United States, at her dock. She will race the winner of the Henry Ford-Bluenose match. Today the Mayflower and the Elizabeth Howard had a practice spin over the race course that the Canadian and American rivals will sail tomorrow. The Mayflower appeared rakish and trim, with Charles Francis Adams, skipper of the Resolute in the last America cup races, and a distinguished group aboard.

REACH PORT AFTER HARD BATTLE WHEN BIG SEAS TEAR MASTS OUT of fishing schooner! Photo shows the dismasted Ruth and Margaret at the Fish Pier, South Boston, which the twenty-three men on board the schooner never expected to reach alive. During a raging gale, with heavy seas, the foremast, bowsprit and mainmast went by the board. Drenched with spray, the men worked all night with axes to clear away the wreckage. The craft limped into port under the power of her gasoline engine.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

See This Romance of Princess Mary Tudor Starring Marion Davies in Super Motion Pictures Which Are to Appear at the Park Theatre, October 26

World-Famous Story of the All-Conquering Power of Love Over the Heart of the Wilful and Beautiful Sister of the Autocratic King Henry VIII.

The King cautions Lady Mary (Marion Davies) against Brandon

This famous story has been created into a superlative photoplay by Cosmopolitan Productions, direction of Robert G. Vignola. It is released as a Paramount picture.

By Charles Major

IT seemed that the wild flowers had taken on their brightest hue, the trees their richest Sabbath day green, and the sun had softest radiance, only to gladden the heart of Mary that they might look her laugh. The laugh would have come quite as joyously had the flowers been dead and the sun black, for flowers and sunlight, south wind, green pastures and verdant hills, all were riding by her side. Poor Mary! Her days of heartbreak were numbered.

We all rode merrily on to Windsor, and when we arrived it was curious to see the great nobles, Buckingham, both the Howards, Seymour and a dozen others stand back for plain Charles Brandon to dismount the fairest maiden and the most renowned princess in Christendom. It was done most gracefully. She was but a trifle to his strong arms, and he lifted her to the sod as gently as if she were a child. The nobles envied Brandon his evident favor with this unattainable Mary and hated him accordingly, but they kept their thoughts to themselves for two reasons: First, they knew not to what degree the king's favor, already marked, with the help of the princess might carry him; and second, they did not care to have a misunderstanding with the man who had cut out Adam Judson's eyes.

We remained at Windsor four or five days, during which time the king made several knights Brandon would probably have been one of them, as everybody expected, had not Buckingham related to Henry the episode of the loose girth, and adroitly poisoned his mind as to Mary's partiality for the man. At this the king began to cast a jealous eye on Brandon. His master was his chief diplomatic resource, and when she loved or married, it should be for Henry's benefit, regardless of all else.

Brandon and the Lady Mary saw a great deal of each other during this little stay at Windsor, as she always had some plan to bring about a meeting, and although very delightful to him, it cost him much in royal favor. He could not trace this effect to its proper cause and it troubled him. I could have told him the reason in two words, but I feared to put into his mind the thought that the princess might learn to love him. As to the king, he would not have cared if Brandon or every other man, for that matter, should go stark mad for love of his sister but when she began to show a preference he grew interested, and it was apt sooner or later to go hard with the fortunate one. When we went back to Greenwich Brandon was sent on a day ahead.

After we had all returned to Greenwich the princess and Brandon were together frequently. Upon several occasions he was invited, with others, to her parlor for card playing. But we spent two evenings, with only four of us present, prior to the disastrous events which changed everything, and of which I am soon to tell you. During these two evenings the "Sailor Lass" was in constant demand.

The pair, who should have remained apart, sat constantly in and about the palace, and every glance added fuel to the flame. Part of the time it was the princess with her troublesome dignity, and part of the time it was Mary—the girl. Notwithstanding these haughty moods, anyone with half an eye could see that the princess was gradually becoming to the budding woman; that Brandon's stronger nature had dominated her with that half fear which every woman feels who loves a strong man—stronger than herself.

One day the rumor spread through the court that the old French King, Louis XII., whose wife, Anne of Brittany, had just died had asked Mary's hand in marriage. It was the probability which opened Brandon's eyes to the fact that he had been playing with the very worst sort of fire, and first made him see that in spite of himself and almost without his knowledge, the girl had grown wonderfully sweet and dear to him. He now saw his danger and struggled to keep himself beyond the spell of her perilous glances and sure song. This modern Ulysses made a masterful effort, but alas! had no ships to carry him away, and no wax with which to fill his ears. Was it a thing, for my lady was as capricious as a May day; but it was love—love as plain as the sun at noon. She sought Brandon upon all occasions and made opportunities to meet him; not openly—at any rate, not with Brandon's knowledge, nor with any connivance on his part, but apparently caring little what he or any one else might see. Love lying in her heart had made her a little more shy than formerly in seeking him, but her stratagems were many—as far as Brandon knew—and he did not see it but I really believe he did not. Although he was quite at ease in her presence, too much so Mary sometimes thought, and strangely enough sometimes told him in a fit of short lived, quickly repented anger that always set him laughing, yet there was never a word or gesture that gave him of undue familiarity. It would probably have met a rebuff from the iron rear part of her; for with a perfervent ardor of high noon—for her blood was warm with the spark of her grandfather's fire and then sink into the west and make room for another sun to morrow. [illegible] with Brandon's stronger nature the sun would go till noon and there would burn for life. The sun, however, had not reached its noon with Brandon, either; as he had set his brain against his heart, and had done what he could to stay the all-consuming orb at its dawning. He knew the hopeless misery such a passion would bring him, and helped the good Lord, in so far as he could, to answer his prayer, and lead him not into temptation. As soon as he saw the truth he avoided Mary as much as possible.

As I said, we had spent several evenings with Mary after we came home from Windsor, at all of which her preference was shown in every movement. Some women are so expressive under strong emotion that every gesture, a turn of the head, a glance of the eyes the lifting of a hand or the pose of the body speaks with a tongue of eloquence, and such was Mary. Her eyes would glow with a soft fire when they rested upon him, and her whole person told all, too plain by what, in truth, it seemed she did not care to hide. When others were present she would restrain herself somewhat, but with only Jane and myself, she could hardly maintain a seemly reserve. During all this time Brandon remained cool and really seemed unconscious of his wonderful attraction for her. It is hard to understand why he did not see it but I really believe he did not. Although he was quite at ease in her presence, too much so Mary sometimes thought, and strangely enough sometimes told him in a fit of short lived, quickly repented anger that always set him laughing, yet there was never a word or gesture that gave him of undue familiarity. It would probably have met a rebuff from the iron rear part of her; for with a perversity, both royal and feminine, she wanted all the freedom for herself. In short, like any other woman she would rather love than be loved, that is, until surrender day should come then of course . .

After these last [illegible] meetings, although the invitations came frequently, none was accepted. Brandon had contrived to have his duties intensify at least, occupy his evenings, and did honestly think his judgment told him was the one thing to do, that is remain away from a fire that could give no genial warmth, but was sure to burn him to the quick. I saw this only too plainly, but never a word of it was spoken between us.

The more I saw of the man, the more I respected him, and this curbing of his affections added to my already high esteem. The effort was doubly wise in Brandon's case. Should love with his intense nature reach its height, his rash leanings would in turn assert itself, and those two would inevitably try to span the insurmountable gulf between them, when Brandon, at least, would go down in the attempt. His trouble, however, did not make a mope of him, and he retained a great deal of his brightness and sparkle undimmed by what must have been an ache in his heart. Though he tried with set purpose it too marked to see as little of Mary as possible the meeting of [illegible] could not be avoided [illegible] when one of them was always seeking to bring it about. After a time Mary began to answer his attempts to avoid her, and she grew cool and distant through pride. Her manner, at last, grew so cold that Brandon, who did not, or at least appeared not to notice it. This the girl could not endure, and bidding strength to resist her heart, soon returned to the attack

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

INTERESTING STORY OF NEWLY WED LIFE

By Ann Lisle

"NO ONE shall suspect anything. I don't know what you're planning, but I'll help you make your getaway—people and all."

I declaimed Carlotta man aged a little as she laughed. It seemed to revive her. She grew straight and strong and fine as she said:

"You know about the telegram from Tony, Anne. No one else does yet. It came to the house this morning. Will you pretend you opened it after I'd gone"

"Yes," I agreed quietly.

"I might have remained you'd stand by. You see, if they don't know I received it—they won't dream that I can't stay to face them when they come together. I can't see Tony with Betty yet. I'm run ng away."

When Carlotta confessed that she couldn't find the courage to stay and greet Tony and Betty, my heart went out to her. But there was nothing for me to do Her decision had to be accepted. There was undoubtedly a great deal of wisdom in her "going away on business" and so escaping the first dramatic moments when Betty Winston's tragic black fig ure entered sen into our world

Absence would give Carlotta the strength and stimulation of change. Time would permit Betty to adjust herself to life back in here in the very part of the world where she and Terry had found their happiness. So instead of arguing with Carlotta or trying to dissuade her, I agreed that the trip was a fine thing for every one concerned.

"You mean thing!" she cried. "I don't believe you'll even miss me."

"Glad to be rid of you," I blustered. "The house isn't large enough for the both of us. And as it's merely your home, why shouldn't you get out and leave it to me?"

"I hate leaving you alone to it," returned Carlotta seriously. "But you won't be alone much. Pat declared that he'd move you bag and baggage out to Swanswild. And Neal insisted that he and Phoebe would be glad to tuck you in over at their little diggings. So I guess you'll be royally entertained while I'm gone. Now let's run down to dinner. I asked Bertha to ice the grapefruit and have it on the table so we can start whenever we're ready."

"Just a minute, dear, while I wash and pretty up a bit. I want to be fine enough to escort you to your train in style."

"Thank you," said Carlotta quietly. "I wouldn't like being alone in—his car."

I'd realized this. But when Carlotta was forced to put it into words, I knew how morbid she must be to use Lyons and Tony's car at all in a world where taxicabs are to be had. But I insisted on a gay note which I thought would be Carlotta a bit of good.

"Run along and start your grapefruit. I'll gobble a bite and catch up. But I insist on looking worthy of you when I see you to your train. Stations always seem very thrilling places, and I like to be fit for the functions they suggest!"

"I'll be dawdling with my grapefruit when you arrive," agreed Carlotta.

So I freshened up a bit and then hurried down to join Carlotta at a board I tried hard to make festive We'd just arrived at the sweets when Bertha summoned me to the telephone, over which Ralph Lacy's sturdy voice rang out in greeting.

"Good evening, Mrs. Harrison, I'm glad I've been able to reach you. I'm compelled to chase upstate on the m dnight to interview one of our national advertisers first thing in the morning. I'll not get back until Sunday, and then I'd like to know where I can get in touch with you in case there's anyth ng to discuss in connection with our May-Parkinson affairs

"If I'm not here, I'm likely to be out at the Dalton place, Dream wold," I replied. "But if you telephone here, there will be someone to put you in touch with me."

MAN AND MAID — By Elinor Glyn

Latest and Best Novel by the Noted Author of "Three Weeks," "Family" and Other Great Stories

By Elinor Glyn

I heard no more of my fiances until next morning when she telephoned. Did I wish her to come that day?

Burton answered that I hoped she would, about 11 o'clock.

I intended to tell her that I thought that it might be wiser now if she did not come again until the wedding, as once we were engaged I would not allow her to run the risk of meeting anyone and giving a false impression. I think the strain would be too great in my case.

I did not come into the salon until she was there, and she rose as I entered. She was whiter than ever, and very stern.

"I have been thinking," she said, before I could speak, "that if I promise to fulfill the bargain, and live here in the flat with you, going through the ceremony at the Consulate is quite unnecessary. Your caprice of having me for your wife merely in name in England may pass, and it seems ridiculous to be tied. I am quite indifferent to what anyone thinks of me. I would prefer it like that."

"Why?" I asked, and wondered for a moment what had occurred.

"There are so many stupid law things. If there is a marriage, and if you have the same from me without, surely you see that it is better."

I first thought that it was this fear of my knowing her family history which was at the root of this suggestion, but then I remembered that she would know that I would hear it in any case, from the Duchesse. What then could it be?

I felt cruel. I was not going to make things too easy for her. If she has the will of the devil, she has also the pride.

"If you are indifferent to such an invidious position as your new rôle would place us in, I am not. I do not wish my friends to think that I am such a cad as unreasonably to have taken advantage of your being my secretary."

"You wish to go on with the marriage then?

"Of course."

She clasped her hands together suddenly, as if she could control herself no longer, and I thought of what she had said to Burton about feeling that she could not allow myself to sympathize with her. I was longing in every nerve of my being to take her into my arms and tell her that I loved her, and knew everything, but I would not do this. I cannot let her master me, or we shall never have an peace. I will not tell her that I love her until her pride is broken, and I have made her love me and come to me voluntarily.

She was silent.

"I have informed the Duchess de Courville that we are engaged. I saw her yesterday."

"She has told you my real name?"

"I have known that for some time, I thought I had made it plain to you that I am not interested about the subject. We need not mention it again. You have only to talk to old Robert Nelson, my lawyer, when he comes on Monday. He will send you the settlements I propose to make, and you can discuss with him as to whether or not you think them satisfactory. Perhaps you, on your side, will tell me what reason you have strong enough to make a girl of your natural self-respect willing to take the position of my apparent mistress?"

She burst out for a second, throwing out her hands, then controlling herself.

"No, I won't tell you. I will tell you nothing. I will just stick to the bargain if I must. You have no right to my thoughts—only my actions!"

"Why don't you ask me to dine with you at your adorable flat."

I bowed. Disagreeable as she was, there was a distinctly pleasant zest in fighting!

"Perhaps of your courtesy you will take off those glasses now, since I am here that you may wear them to conceal your eyes, and not that they are necessary for your sight."

She flushed with annoyance.

"And if I refuse?"

I shrugged my shoulders.

"I shall think it very childish of you."

With a petulance which I had never seen in her she tossed her head.

"I don't care! At present I will not."

I frowned, but did not speak. This will be discussed between us later. My fighting spirit is up. She shall obey me!

"Did you order the clothes yesterday?"

"Yes."

"Enough, I hope."

"Yes."

"Well, now, I have a suggestion to make which I am sure will please you, and that is that you will appoint some meeting place with Mr. Nelson for Tuesday morning, since you do not trust my good taste far enough even to let me know your home address. Perhaps at the Hotel de Courville, if the Duchesse will permit, and that then we do not meet until the seventh of November at the ceremony. Mr. Nelson will arrange with you all the law of the thing and what witnesses you must have, and everything, and this will save these useless discussions and give you a little breathing space."

This seemed to subdue her, and she agreed less defiantly.

"And now I will not detain you longer," I said stiffly. "An revoir until the seventh of November at whatever hour is arranged, or if we must meet before, at the signing of the contract," and I bowed.

She bowed also, and walked haughtily to the door and left.

And greatly exhilarated, I decided to dine and lunch with Maurice at the Ritz.

As I came from the lift Madame Rinot's daughter came out of the concierge's lodge with her baby, and it was making its some little cooing, gurgling noises that caused me to feel that time we have had together in the last year?"

So she came, and selected a gem of an opera glass. An opera glass is discreet; it can be accepted by anyone; even a woman determined to impress my mind with her dignity and charm, as Coralie was attempting to do, upon our expedition. She had made up her mind that I should no longer be just a benefit to the three of them, but her own special property, and she in clever enough to see that I am in a mood to admire dignity and discretion! I spent a most amusing hour with her, enjoying myself in the spirit of watching a good play at the Comedie Francaise. At about four o'clock, when we returned to the Ritz, Coralie was baffled. I could see that she was keener than ever, and beginning to be a little worried and unsure of herself!

As I drove back to my flat, taking a roundabout way through the Bois, I mused and analyzed things. And what is the psychological reason for some presents that are acceptable and some not? I am going back to the recreative instinct and through what this manifests itself. Gifts which have any relation to the body to give it pleasure, or to decorate it, are the expressions of sex relationship, and so presumably the subconscious mind, which only sees the truth in everything, only feels harmonious when these gifts are given by either parents or relations, as a dower, so to speak, or the husband or prospective husband. Hence through the ages the unconscious relegation of certain presents as acceptable only from certain people. Any present which gives pleasure to Alice to try on her clothes, so Coralie and I were left alone.

"You are looking quite well now, Nicholas," she whispered. "Why don't you ask me to come and dine with you, at your adorable flat—alone?"

"You would be bored with me before the evening was over."

"Arrange it, and try! Always there are others, except that night at Versailles. There is an air with you, Nicholas—one has forgotten all about your eyes. I have thought and thought of you—you have interfered with all my pleasures in life!"

"I am going back to England quite soon, Coralie, won't you come now to the rue de la Paix and let me buy you as little souvenir of all the lovely times we have had together in the last year?"

So she came, and selected a gem of an opera glass. An opera glass is discreet; it can be accepted by anyone; even a woman determined to impress my mind with her dignity and charm, as Coralie was attempting to do, upon our expedition. She had made up her mind that I should no longer be just a benefit to the three of them, but her own special property, and she is clever enough to see that I am in a mood to admire dignity and discretion! I spent a most amusing hour with her, enjoying myself in the spirit of watching a good play at the Comedie Francaise. At about four o'clock, when we returned to the Ritz, Coralie was baffled. Hence through the ages the unconscious relegation of certain presents as acceptable only from certain people. Any present which gives pleasure to the mind alone is the tribute of friendship, but those to tone the body are presumably not. I could give Coralie an opera glass as a mark of my esteem, but a bracelet which she would wear on her arm would have another meaning!

Alathea resents every present, those for the body because they suggest my possession of her, those for the mind because she feels no friendship for me at all!

Well, well!

What will she do I wonder during the fortnight of our engagement? I feel that I can afford to wait with patience and certainty. But the thought that I do not even know my fiancee's address, and that she is resentful and defiant, and rebellious at everything, and yet intends to marry me on the seventh of November, is really almost humorous!

And now it behooves me to put my house in order, and map out exactly what I mean to do!

The days go slowly on; my preparations are complete. My good friend Nelson arrived on Monday and took charge of the affair. He was entirely aware of the Bulteel story—it was the great scandal of twenty-five years ago. He expressed no opinion as to my marrying into such a family, but went about the business end with diligence. I made a very nice settlement on Alathea, more than he thought was necessary. Then he spoke of arrangements for possible children, and fixed that, too. I wonder what she will say when she reads that part! I have settled with the Duchess who is entering into the spirit of the thing with her usual delicious whimsical understanding, that some time soon after the wedding she shall ask about ten of our principal mutual friends to come in the afternoon, and she will present Alathea to them, and if any one makes comment upon the matter, she will say that she is the daughter of an old English friend, and even if Coralie recognizes her as the girl she was with me at Versailles, she will not dare to say a word about any protege of the Duchesse. She is much too afraid of offending her, having received at the Hotel de Courville herself on sufferance only because of her birth and family. As for Maurice, I can manage him! Now I am beginning to wonder what Alathea would prefer to do. I don't want to see her until the ceremony, but I suppose I must.

Nicholas asks her to marry him as a business proposition. She consents. Nicholas arranges to help her family out of debt at great expense.

War Radio Invention

THE only invention he ever made in "cold blood," Major Edwin H. Armstrong, noted radio inventor, tells an interviewer in the November issue of Hearst's International Magazine, was the amplification of these waves. This happened in the war, while he was a major in the aviation corps.

The Germans were sending on wave so short, just a few stations a mile or two apart, that the cycles ran up to perhaps 3,000,000 a second. There was no known method of amplifying oscillations of such high frequency. Armstrong solved the problem by what is known as the super-heterodyne process.

What he did was this: He found the exact oscillation of the German waves. Say there were 3,000,000. Beside these, Armstrong set up oscillations of 3,050,000. When waves of different frequency are set up together, each set of waves makes an inaudible note, and the two notes combine to form a third, which may be audible. The third wave in this case represented the 50,000 difference between the German waves and those set up by Armstrong. He amplified the third note, and thus succeeded in amplifying the German messages.

Very Impressive

"You're getting gloomier every day," said a solicitous friend. "Why don't you read some light literature?"

"That's the trouble now," replied the gloomy man. "I've been looking at my gas bill."

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

How quickly men come and go. Previous columns have recorded the changes among railway presidents.

Today let us glance at the changes among the presidents of our largest industrial enterprises.

Taking twenty of our leading industrial corporations I have compiled a table showing who the president in each case was in 1905, in 1915 and today.

F. N. Hoffstot of the Pressed Steel Car Company is the only one of the 1905 lot who appears in the 1922 list.

Seventeen years ago H. H. Rogers was president of America's largest copper company The ill-fated H. O. Havemeyer was head of our Sugar Trust. James B. Duke was president of the American Tobacco Company. Frederick Ayer fixed the same role with the Woolen Trust.

Schwab then held the position of president of Bethlehem Steel; he is now chairman, and Eugene G. Grace, the president, is gradually taking over more and more of Mr. Schwab's active duties.

The veteran C. A. Coffin was then president of General Electric. Cyrus H. McCormick was head of the International Harvester, the position which later devolved upon his brother Harold and more recently was taken hold of by Alexander Legge.

George Westinghouse was in control of Westinghouse Electric, and the redoubtable Samuel P. Colt headed United States Rubber, the giant combination which, he had been instrumental in forming. The Steel Corporation had as its president William E. Cory. Frederick F. Fish was gulp the destinies of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, but was succeeded in 1907 by Theodore N. Vail, who, in turn was followed by H. B. Thayer.

* * *

No fewer than fifteen of the twenty companies changed presidents during the ten years following 1905.

Only 1915 there have been changes in these presidencies.

One thought begotten by a survey of the changes in the presidencies of our leading industrial enterprises is this: In 1905 a large number of these corporations were presided over by men who had been chiefly instrumental in organizing them or in expanding them tremendously through combining or consolidating previous concerns. Conspicuous in this category were Schwab, Coffin, Cory, Westinghouse, Duke, Havemeyer, Ayer and Rogers.

As in the case of our railway [illegible] presidents, they had to start at the bottom and push their way ahead without any family or financial influences.

This has been true of such men as James A. Farrell of the Steel Corporation, Gerard Swope of General Electric, Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem Steel, H. B. Thayer of American Telephone, Charles B. Segar of United States Rubber, Earl D. Babst of American Sugar Refining, Edwin M. Herr of Westinghouse Electric.

Endless nonsense is written about "Wall Street" running newspapers. Every large concern in the land. The actual running of the vast majority of our great enterprises is done by men who have no connection whatsoever with Wall Street, by men who are where they are because of their achievements in subordinate positions.

(Copyright, 1922, by B. C. Forbes.)

MOTOR GROUP IS WEAK IN FAIR TURNOVER

Reading led the railroad group with a new year's top while oils and steels shared the leadership in a strong New York market. The motor group was weak in a fair turnover, with Studebaker off 2⅜ at 129⅜, after being up 1⅜.

Mex Pets displayed remarkable strength, up 13¼ at 231½. The other Doheny oils, Pan-American A and B, lifted more than 4 points.

Endicott Johnson lifted 4 points on news of still better earnings in the shoe trade.

Liberty 3½s Take Drop of More Than $2

The sharp drop in Liberty 3½ per cent bonds which touched $101, or $2.02 below Thursday's high—also the year's—and $1 below Thursday's close, was the outs anding feature in New York bond trading. Other U. S. government securities showed little change.

Conflicting movements took place in the foreign group. Belgian 7½s and 8s, Japanese first 4s, French 7½s, Lyons 6s and 8s re Confederate 8s declined fractionally, while United Kingdom 5½s of 1937, Mexican 5s, Bolsnons 6s and Dominion of Canada 8s of 1931 moved to higher grounds.

New Protective Tariff

It Cannot Be Justified as a Means of Suppressing Competition Between American and Foreign Manufacturers

Senator Lodge has stated that the present tariff is justifiable if it succeeds actually in keeping out foreign goods from the American market. Colonel Gaston replied that this is an indefensible attitude, for it justifies the deliberate destruction of competition without reference to the cost of production. It deliberately throws away the traditional excuse for the protective tariff, namely, that it equalizes the cost of production between America and Europe and thus enables the payment to American workmen, producing goods in competition with European goods, the American standard of wages.

Can any sensible and reasonable American who appreciates the fact that America is no longer a debtor nation, but is a creditor nation, and that her home market no longer suffices to maintain her home industries, hesitate to agree with Colonel Gaston's criticism of Senator Lodge's position?

The protective tariff cannot be justified as a means of suppressing competition between American manufacturers and European manufacturers. It can only be justified as putting the American manufactures upon equal ground with foreign manufactures with respect to the cost of labor. It can only be justified upon the ground that otherwise the American manufacturer would be obliged either to go out of business entirely or to reduce American wages to the level of the wages in the foreign industries.

It has been clear for years that the Republican party under the control of the great protected industries abandoned the ancient ground upon which the economists and statesmen defended the protective tariff. It has been known for years that the industries which had enjoyed the most protection were the industries which paid the lowest wages. It has been known for years that the protective tariff has ceased to be a tariff levied for the protection of American workmen and has become a tariff levied to enable powerful tariff barons, the money-changers of the Republican party, those who contribute to its war chest, to extort from the American people and to make these contributions to the Republican party campaign funds an incident in the cost of business.

A great increase in the cost of living will flow immediately from this new Republican tariff. Labor will not get the benefit from it, but will get many of its burdens, for labor must pay every increase which the new tariff makes in the cost of living.

Coal Situation

Faulty Equipment of Railroads May Be to Blame for Shortage—Should Be Rigidly Investigated

The morning papers announce that more than a million tons of British coal have reached Boston.

Recently we called public attention to the statement of Mr. Hultman, Massachusetts Commissioner on the Necessaries of Life, that there would be no scarcity of coal at the mines; that the coal production was less than two weeks' behind the coal production of last year, and that there was no excuse for an increase in the price of coal upon the assumption that coal was to be scarce at the mines.

Now, if it is scarce in New England, it is due to the fact that owners of the coal mines or the coal dealers are in conspiracy to extort high prices or the railroads have in their wild attempt to exploit labor permitted their cars and engines to become so run down and out of repair that they cannot function properly and cannot move the coal as fast as it ought to be moved.

The labor leaders who are experts in their line say that the fault lies largely with the railroads and with the faulty railroad equipment. There ought to be a rigid and vigorous investigation of this question.

Henry Ford declares that the whole thing is a gigantic conspiracy running from Wall Street to the coal mines, including the railroads, to extort huge sums from the American people. He proved his contention so far as the coal in his neighborhood was concerned by beginning an attack which brought the coal-scuttling down to less than one-half what it had been before he made his attack, and it brought him plenty of coal in the bargain.

When the government owns and operates the railroads we shall see less and less of this sort of organized, gigantic public robbery.

U. S. Wastes Cost of Bonus

The full return of prosperity will be delayed as long as the Federal government continues to take between three and four billion dollars in taxes away from the people to support extravagant departments and bureaus in Washington.

The country sympathizes with the sentiment if not the "exact language of the profanity of Brigadier-General Dawes, former budget director, speaking of the opposition he met from department heads in reducing swollen budget estimates.

Dawes' achievement as budget director was a real one; he had the courage to cut down 1,760 million dollars of estimates submitted to him.

The expenses of the Federal government must be reduced further. There is a wide, wide gap between the 763 million dollars of its "ordinary expenditures" in the fiscal year 1914 and the 3,373 millions paid out last year.

The money saved by immediate contraction of swollen Federal bureaus will be available for adjusted compensation to the soldiers who won the war. Senator McCormick has said: "Stop the waste of government and you will have funds to meet the soldiers' bonus."

Excepting for the war debt the country can and must be brought back to the level of pre-war expenditures.

Big Royalties in U. S. Oil Lands

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—In his role of millionaire oil producer, your Uncle Sam received in August the tidy sum of $778,378.11 in royalties from the production of oil, natural gas and natural gas gasoline on government lands in the West, according to the Bureau of Mines.

Total net royalties accruing to the government to August 31 from these sources amount to $7,187,493.77. Of the August royalties $358,819.46 in credited to Wyoming, $354,751.40 to California and $34,597.25 to Montana.

"Royalties on the production of oil," the bureau stated, "constituted by far the largest portion of these Federal revenues and amounted to $745,696.48; royalties on natural gas were $28,760.20, and on natural gas gasoline $3,921.45."

The bureau received from the General Land Office in August 271 oil and gas prospecting permits, bringing the total number of permits received to 8,538. Five leases were received, making a total of 397.

"The government's sliding royalty scale on oil produced from government leased lands, provided by the leasing acts, is an important innovation for the petroleum industry," an official of the bureau said. "Under it the government's royalties vary from 12½ to 33 1-3 per cent., according to the rates of production.

"During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922, the total government royalty amounted to approximately $4,000,000. Under the leasing acts this amount is divided—10 per cent. to the United States Treasury, 37½ per cent. to the State in which the oil and gas are produced, and 51½ per cent. to the United States Reclamation Service."

Despite the business depression and curtailed production, the bureau said, field developments have proceeded rapidly in the Rocky Mountain district, where on June 30 of this year there were 266 producing wells on government land, of which 267 were in the Salt Creek field in Wyoming. On that date 199 new wells were being drilled in the Salt Creek field.

Active preparations also were in progress for the drilling program required under the Mammoth Oil Company's lease of Naval Reserve No. 3 on Teapot Dome.

Costly Lockers

Editor Boston American:

Those pay toilet lockers in the subway are as tricky as the slot machines, but you stand to lose a dime instead of a cent. I put a dime in the other day and had to chase it with another to get the door open. Then when the door is open one has to hang on to it or the spring will slam it shut, meaning another ten cents.

Same Ancestor

Editor Boston American:

It is surprising to note how popular the fallacy has become that Charles Darwin declared man to be the direct descendant of the ape. On the contrary, the famous eclectist never wrote or said anything as rash as that, but merely stated in his "Origin of Species" his belief that man and ape both originate from the same ancestor.

Old Newspapers

Editor Boston American:

Regarding old newspapers, I have in my possession an old newsletter printed in Dublin, Ireland, dated June 23rd to 27th, 1741. Possibly some of your readers whose ancestors were in business in Dublin at that time would be interested in the advertisements. MRS. F. KEELER.

Boston and Graft

Editor Boston American:

It might interest the people of Boston to compare their city with many other cities, or just take Indianapolis for instance, and see what a great part graft plays in the city of Boston. There were ten families emigrated out here in the early Spring to escape high rents, high car fares and all the other things that have been going on with the sanction of Governor Cox and the results of the Peters administration. I think the present Mayor will accomplish a few reforms, but it will take time. We came out here and we have what Boston hasn't had for a long time: Clean streets, five-cent car fare, nice homes not out of repair, moderate rent, a Governor with a conscience, plenty of street cars and seats for all and breathing space between houses.

Packers' Prices

Editor Boston American:

The Boston American recently contained a story about meat prices with the heading, "Bay State Easy Money for Gouging Packers." This article quotes figures issued by Mr. E. C. Hultman, chairman of the Massachusetts Special Commission on the Necessities of Life, showing that prices in Boston are higher than in other large cities in the country. This article fails to point out the very important point contained in Mr. Hultman's statement that the prices quoted are retail prices. The packers sell only at wholesale, and a study of wholesale quotations issued by the United States Department of Agriculture shows that wholesale prices are in line with wholesale prices in other cities.

THE HELPING HAND

Artificial Leg

Editor Boston American:

I am a cripple with one leg and would like the address where I can get a false leg. R. N. B.

ED. NOTE—R. N. B. has been referred to one of our readers, who offered a short time ago to supply an artificial leg.

Carriage Given

Editor Boston American:

I have a baby carriage which I should be glad to give to some poor mother. It needs a coat of paint; otherwise it is in good condition. E. M. S.

ED. NOTE—The above carriage has been given to Mrs. J. S.

For an Invalid

Editor Boston American:

I would be very grateful to get the books D. M. wrote of. For the past two years I have been confined to the house, and I do not know when my strength will return so I may go out again. As I am only twenty-four years old, it is difficult to know how to make time pass. W. J. M.

ED. NOTE—The above books have been sent to a worthy invalid. Will some of our other readers supply W. J. M.?

Needs Baby Clothes

Editor Boston American:

I am a young mother and have three children and expect to have another soon. My husband is working, but makes very small pay. Will you please put an appeal through the columns of your paper, asking any of the readers if they have any baby clothes they could let me have for the new baby, as I am unable to get any. MRS. J. Are We Growing Degenerate?

By Winifred Black.

"WOMEN are spoiled," says Mary Austin, the California novelist. "A few spankings or a good, vigorous shake or two would do the average woman a whole lot of good."

"Men are spoiled," says Miss Gail Laughlin, also a Californian. "They've been spoiled for generations. Their mothers spoil them and their sisters spoil them, and their sweethearts spoil them, and their wives spoil them, and then their daughters spoil them, and the result is that the average man is the most selfish, egotistical, vain thing alive."

"What's become of feminine modesty?" wails a sad sister in a current magazine. "Where are the young girls, such as we used to have—shy," was there ever such a word, and what did it ever mean? Of all the bold, brazen creatures give me a modern high school girl."

It's really discouraging, isn't it?

I got to feeling dreadfully about it.

And then I read some modern books all about psycho-analysis and the subconscious mind which never seems to think of anything decent or honest, or wholesome or kind or human, and I began almost to wish that I had been born a dog or a cat, or a bird, or something just so I wouldn't have to bear the disgrace of belonging to the degenerate human family.

"I'll go downtown and get some more of these new books," I thought. "No matter how blue they make me, I might as well face the truth and be done with it."

And just as I started to enter the store I saw a navy man carrying a baby, with his little wife beside him.

Yes, there she was—the little wife—all in a pretty little frock with a neat little hat and a pair of impudent little shoes tied with a knot that was so knowing that it fairly winked at you.

And off they went together the three of them, so happy that they fairly radiated joy.

And I didn't buy the books about the everlasting misery and degradation of the human heart.

Somehow I didn't feel in tune for them—after I'd seen the man and the woman and the babe.

What a lot we do talk and how little what we know saving seems to mean—sometimes—after all.

SEEN AND HEARD

THE old-time horse-drawn cab has not yet passed entirely out of existence. Only the other day one was seen on Washington street with two aged persons occupying seats inside, and a coachman with all the requisite livery, sitting on top calmly awaiting the traffic officer's signal to go.

Two new leaders of the Bay State clergy come to Boston via Maine. They are REV. VICTOR O. ANDERSON at the Church of the Advent, who was ordained by Bishop Codman at the Portland cathedral, and REV. CHARLES L. SLATTERY, who will be consecrated Bishop-Coadjutor of Massachusetts Oct. 31, who was living in Brunswick, Me., when PHILLIPS BROOKS advised him to take a course at Harvard.

Ex-commuter who read a yarn that service was back to normal on the New Haven Railroad, started to take a train to Mount Bowdoin from the South Station. One was due to leave just after 5 p. m. That one didn't go at all, and hundreds of people mobbed the gates to get the 5:15. It was a battle between railroad employes and train versus the crowd to close the gates, shutting out about half those trying to get aboard. As the gates slammed together, the ex-commuter gave it up and made his way again toward the Broadway tunnel.

Boston girls are wearing an exceedingly ingenious jewelry novelty that has just appeared. It is a pendant of glass, shaped like a tiny electric light bulb an inch long, and hangs on the end of a black ribbon. Within the glass is a transparent liquid, the composition of which is kept a secret, in which float ten or twelve small opals. When warmed by the softly beating feminine heart, the opals swim lazily about, flashing all the myriad colors for which the stone is famous.

New England men continue to win advancement in the West. On the growing list should be placed the name of ARTHUR W. MOULTON, a native of Worcester, now Episcopalian Bishop of Salt Lake City. BISHOP MOULTON is a comparatively young man, and was chaplain in the Massachusetts Field Artillery.

Boston, as "the Athens of America," has long been noted for the honors it has paid to men and women famed for their production in prose and rhyme. Add to the list the name of the poet Tennyson, who died thirty years ago this month. Review Club of Auburndale leads in paying the tribute, with MISS SALLY TURNER singing a number of Tennyson poems set to song.

AS CAPTAIN CALL took the steamship North Land out of India Wharf for New York the other afternoon, there was an unusually demonstrative party of friends wishing bon voyage to a pretty bride and her new husband. In the enthusiasm of their "till we meet again," a young man ashore removed one of his shoes and threw it so that it landed on the North Land's decks, within a few feet of where the bridal couple stood. As there were plenty of autos at the curb, he did not have to walk home.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON MEASURING MINDS

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE true measure of an individual mind is to be found in its ultimate achievement, and not by means of any mental and educational measuring of tests. Thousands of school and college graduates, whose standing is high, according to both the old pedagogical and the new psychological tests, fail to fulfill in active life the apparent promise of eminence noted by their examiners and indicated by their class work.

On the contrary, other thousands who failed, or were relatively weak, at the tests have turned out to be leaders and persons of distinction and of uncommon mental activity and power upon entering into real life. This applies even in many cases to scholars in the old classic sense, and in still more numerous cases to scientific and professional workers and leaders; while with many college graduating classes it is the rule rather than the exception among those who achieve distinction in commerce, industry and all kinds of enterprise.

Neither the test examinations nor the probings of "trained psychologists" reach and reveal the solid foundation that is often concealed beneath an undeveloped mentality.

These are truisms, known to every observant person, and they offer the proper basis, or starting point, for the reform of educational methods. They are facts of observation, not fanciful deductions from theories of the wildfire variety, whose chief quality is the property of rapidly spreading and kindling.

If we believed the interpretation put upon the wholesale psychological tests made at the beginning of our entrance into the great war, we should have to confess that, so far as mentality is concerned, we are a nation of twelve-year-old children, or worse. The fatal defect in such a system is that the tests are too inflexible, too unnatural, and utterly inadequate in number, variety and adaptability, to plumb the depths of mentality. They fail in that respect even more notably than did Gall's phrenological system, in which he sought to corral all the intellectual and moral faculties of a man within artificial fences of definition.

One great fault, it seems to me, with all attempts made through the schools to measure, or estimate, the intellectual powers of youth, lies in the fact that too much stress is put upon—or may I would even say, premature—development.

It is another notorious fact, in addition to those with which we began, that youthful prodigies commonly turn out failures in middle life, and often earlier. The strongest minds are those that develop with relative slowness. Leaving out of account the few great geniuses who have astonished the world by their achievements when they were just passing from youth into manhood, I think it is unquestionable that the world's most useful men and women, and most successful, have been those who ripened rather slowly.

—Says Medbury—

We Have to Have a Prescription Now Before We Can Get Warm Inside or Out

Coal is so scare in some cities that you can't get even a sack of it without an order from a physician. We have to have a doctor's prescription now before we can get warm inside or outside.

This new ruling has made bootlegging joints out of innocent coal yards.

Every man who has dirty hands is looked upon with suspicion.

It's nothing to see a guy going down the street with a lump of coal on his hip pocket.

The birds who have three or four tons of it in their cellars are charging you 50 cents an hour to let you come over to their house and get one.

But it doesn't do any good, because you get cold again going home.

One guy had on a pair of asbestos trousers and was caught taking five hot coals home to his wife.

A dame in the Middle West resolved to get warm by burning her old love letters, but she cried so much putting them in the fire that her tears put them all wet and they wouldn't burn.

However, her father was a smart man. He went down to a coal yard and started throwing rocks at some guy working on a coal pile. Pretty soon he had all the coal he could use.

This guy fired lumps of coal at him all the way home.

When he got to his house he ran into the basement and called the fellow all kinds of names. In an hour he had a cellar full of coal.

He not only got his coal for nothing, but he had it delivered.

Now the other guy is calling him names in hopes that he'll get his coal back again.

When you see a man sneaking down an alley with a suitcase you don't know what he's got in it, whiskey or coal.

The shortage is getting so bad that a lot of people are afraid to have open fireplaces.

Some of them are putting padlocks on their chimneys until next Summer. They aren't even going to trust Santa Claus.

But the bachelors are the only ones who are going to freeze this Winter. The married men have their wives to make it hot for them.
